FARMERS DEMAND QUICK AID FROM CONGRESS; CALL BOTH PARTIES LAX

Conference Urges Legislation at Once and Indorses Lowden Plan for Federal Farm Bureau.

ASSAULTS COOLIDGE'S COTTON COMMITTEE

Advocates Aluminum, Steel and Chemical Tariff Reductions "That Shelter Price-Fixing Monopolies"

A comprehensive declaration of principles approved by farm organization representatives of 12 Northern and Southern States, quickly dictated, marked the close today of a conference here of agricultural leaders from the cotton, wheat and corn sections of the South, Middle West and North Central sections of the country.

Outstanding points of the declaration are:

An appeal for early farm relief legislation, and immediate action by Congressional committee in the study and preparation of such legislation for the next session.

Criticism of both political parties in Congress for failure in the past to provide any adequate farm relief.

A demand for tariff reductions in certain basic commodities—aluminum, steel and chemicals—which it is charged afford shelter for price-fixing monopolies.

Wartime legislation investigated. A suggestion for congressional investigation of certain phases of agricultural legislation particularly the inter-relationships which have developed between the government and agricultural industry.

Interference with the Federal Farm Board plan sponsored yesterday by President O. Lowden for Governor of Illinois—a plan similar in principle to the McCarver-Haugen bill of last winter, create a board with power to withhold surpluses and pro-rate the same among the producers.

A demand for a permanent program for cotton and criticism of the President's Cotton Committee, formed recently with a view to withdrawing 4,000,000 surplus bales from the market, as "unwarranted."

A defense of the "bloc system" in Congress as a request that Senators and Representatives from agricultural regions organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit, to work for the economic interests of agriculture.

A plea for the constructive aid of farmers in industry, commerce and labor, with a declaration that the economic success of the nation and the industrial section depends primarily on the success of the farm.

Declaration at Closing Session. The text of the declaration, drafted last night in a two-day executive session, was read by United States Senator Charles McNary, and was adopted by the representatives of the various sections.

The closing session of the state-wide conference called to round up unity and harmony which dominated the first time.

The proceedings of this conference, said the statement, "furnish proof that the farmers of the United States recognize no sectional lines, no political divisions, no commodity rivalry in planning for future co-operation."

Former Gov. Lowden, who outlined his Farm Board plan at yesterday's session at the Chamber of Commerce, and Senator Thaddeus Caraway of Arkansas, who urged "governmental favoritism" toward the farmer, were the only two men who spoke at the conference.

Bookhart Outlines Board. Bookhart rose for a few minutes during the round table discussion and assured the delegates that he was very busy in not indorse the plan.

Bookhart outlined his plan for a federal farm bureau, which would be a permanent organization, and would be a part of the federal government.

6.10 INCH SNOWFALL SETS RECORD FOR NOVEMBER

Turns to Slush Downtown, Blurs Windshields, Making Auto Driving Difficult—Previous High Mark Is That of 1895.

A record snowfall for November in St. Louis fell today, the Weather Bureau at 3 p. m. announcing that 6.10 inches had fallen in less than seven hours.

Most of the snow melted after contact with pavements, but downtown pedestrians and motor cars pushed through about 3 inches of slush.

The previous high, November record here was 4 inches on Nov. 25-26, 1895.

Records of snow earlier than this date, in the last 20 years, are: Nov. 25, 1895, 7 of an inch; Nov. 2, 1899, 2.5 inches; Nov. 14, 1906, 2 inches; Nov. 12, 1911, one inch.

Colder weather is predicted for this afternoon and tonight, with snow tonight and a temperature of 22 is officially forecast as tonight's low mark.

Motorists had fair warning, and those who took their cars out were heading into it was as if they had looked with windshields blurred and pavements slushy. Tops were cars accumulated snow, and parked cars were covered with a heavy overcast.

Bus-tops were deserted, and many regular motor passengers returned to the old and fairly reliable trolley system.

BANKER SHOT TO DEATH ON BRIDGE; TWO MEN HELD

Imprisoned as Witnesses, They Admit Passing Mokane, Mo., Cashier Thinking Him Intoxicated.

SAW BIG TOURING CAR THAT CROSSED BRIDGE

Coroner Believes Victim Was Shot by Robbers—Open Pocketbook and Iron Pipe Are Found.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 17.—James Dickinson, cashier of the Farmers' Bank of Mokane, Mo., was found dead on the Missouri river bridge here early today. He had been shot through the right temple.

The body was found at 4:40 this morning by an employee of the traction company, which operates a street car across the bridge. Police were notified. Two men are being held as material witnesses for the coroner's inquest.

They gave their names as H. R. Moore, a graduate student, assistant instructor in physics at the University of Missouri, at Columbia and Gilbert Kimball, a student in the university.

They said they crossed the bridge in an automobile about 3:30 o'clock this morning and saw a man lying at the far side of the bridge, but did not stop as they thought he was intoxicated. They drove here from Columbia on personal business.

They said they also saw a large touring car, which apparently had gone north on State Highway 63 near the bridge.

County Coroner L. A. T. Meyer was of the opinion that the man had been shot by robbers. A pocketbook, opened, was found near the body, and also a piece of iron pipe wrapped in a rubber tube.

Officers of the Farmers' Bank there yesterday afternoon left to return last night. He told a bridge-tender here he had missed across the river to wait at the M. & K. T. station.

Dickinson is survived by his widow and two sons. He was 63 years old.

STEEL DROPS 3 POINTS AND OTHER ISSUES TAKE TUMBLE

Heavy Selling of Common Causes by Short Orders—Inherits New York Market.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Heavy selling of U. S. Steel common, which broke over three points to 147 1/2 on selling presumably inspired by the reported falling off in orders, unsettled today's stock market after an early period of strength.

Case Threshing Machine broke nearly 14 points to 141, and dozens of other issues sold down to 3 points. Weekly steel trade reports declared mill operations of the United States Steel Corporation had fallen below 80 per cent of capacity, with independents reported operating between 70 and 75 per cent.

He fled after striking the woman, who suffered a fractured arm and dislocated shoulder. A spectator told him the woman had died.

DETECTIVES WATCH MURDER

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—While a squad of city detectives looked on three labor gunmen in an automobile last night, shot and killed a rival labor organizer who was riding in a bicycle. The detectives, who were less than half a block distant, promptly arrested the slayers.

12 PIRATES SLAIN BY TWO OFFICERS ON BRITISH SHIP

Ten Chinese Buccaneers, Failing to Retain Control of Vessel, Put Off in Light Boat.

ONE DROWNED, NINE CAPTURED

Pirates Boarded Craft, Put Two of Number on Bridge and Fired the Vessel.

By the Associated Press. HONG KONG, Nov. 17.—Twelve pirates were killed, one was drowned and nine were captured in a desperate battle on the decks of the British steamer Sunning and a subsequent pursuit of the fleeing buccaneers, 80 miles off Hong Kong, it was learned here today.

When the ship, badly damaged by fire and bearing gruesome marks of the encounter, was towed into port under guard.

As the captured pirates were rushed to jail, officers of the ship, told the story of the fight.

When the watch was being changed late Monday afternoon, 40 pirates rushed the rails overboarders and taking control of the ship by putting two of their number on the bridge.

Chief Officer T. P. Beatty and Second Officer J. W. Hurst, who had been held at bay by the pirates, finally found two revolvers and 150 rounds of ammunition, and at midnight decided to attempt to regain control of the ship.

Pirates Shot Down. Brandishing their guns, they rushed the bridge. The two pirates on the bridge were shot down by the officers and left apparently lifeless. This put the officers in control of the ship's workings.

Shortly afterward one of the pirates on the bridge revived and rushed to the deck, where he was shot. Another pirate rushed the bridge. A revolver fight ensued at close range and he fell.

The remaining buccaneers, seeing their plans going down to defeat because of the lack of the British seamen, then seized the main, chief engineer of the Sunning, and, using him for a shield, rushed the steps of the bridge.

Here the defenders turned loose their deadliest fire, and 11 pirates were slain. Cornack was wounded in the chest and leg.

Realizing their efforts to regain possession of the ship were futile, the boarders fled off the ship, hoping to make the bridge too hot for the officers, but the wind carried the flames aft and away from the control, incinerating the dead and leaving pirates and making it impossible to resume their attack on Beatty and Hurst.

Other Vessels Catch Fire.

The flames then spread to the British cruiser Bluebell and other vessels. Meanwhile, the attackers anchored two lifeboats and disappeared in the darkness, taking with them 14 capsules, an employee of the Eastern Extension Service.

A heavy sea was running, and a woman passenger whose name was not given was put off in a lifeboat for her safety. This boat later was picked up by the Norwegian steamer Revenstorf.

The Bluebell arrived alongside and put a naval guard aboard, expecting to find the pirates on board. On being overtaken, one of them jumped overboard and was drowned and the others were taken captive.

The British steamer Sunning altered her course and went to the rescue. But late time the fire had spread and the rescue ship was unable to get to the bridge.

Last night a tug arrived from Hongkong and took her in tow. The Sunning, a ship of about 2,500 tons was on its way here from Amoy.

'KING' BEN, CULT HEAD, HELD AFTER FIVE YEARS

Purnell, of House of David, Found at Benton Harbor, Mich., Where He Had Been Living All the Time.

COURT REQUIRES $50,000 CASH BOND

Lawyer, Four Other Men and Three Women With Fugitive in Building at His Settlement.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17.—"King" Benjamin Purnell of the House of David, arrested early today after a five-year search on warrants charging assault upon two former girl members of his colony, and who was released a few hours later under a $50,000 bond, was rearrested this afternoon when Circuit Judge Charles E. White ruled that the bond was worthless.

Purnell was captured early today by State police in a building of the colony here. Missing since 1922 when warrants were issued charging him with assault on girl inmates of the colony, the lawless cult leader was taken in a surprise visit by troopers.

Only a few hours previously had the authorities learned that he was living here quietly among his followers. He had been there hidden, throughout the five years of the search, throughout the world.

Swooping down, State troopers, under Inspector J. N. Marmon, crashed their way through doors and windows. Aided by flood lights brought to the colony grounds in automobiles, the troopers surrounded the administration building.

Purnell, surprised, was found seated in a chair dressed only in his underwear. Beside him stood two men who said they were attendants to a "sick man."

All Held for Questioning. In other rooms of the building were found three other men and three women, one of them Purnell's constant attendant throughout his career, Myrtle Turk. The women were in their night garments.

The troopers gathered the flock together and took them to the Benton County jail for questioning.

When Purnell was released on a $50,000 bond when arraigned in Justice Court, the bond was signed by Edith Meldrum and Frank E. Potts, House of David members. It was secured by the colony's $150,000 hotel building in Benton Harbor, which, during the night, was deced by color; officers for the purpose of the bond.

Purnell's examination was set for Dec. 28.

"King" Ben, who built up the colony from a scattered membership to a community of nearly 10,000 men and women, was carried into the court of Justice of the Peace Elizabeth Forhan by four bearded members of the cult. He remained silent during the short proceedings.

Purnell, when questioned as to his identity, gave his full name and added "I am a painter."

Raid Resulted From Tip. The raid was made as result of information given by Mrs. Bessie Woodworth and her husband, both former members of the colony, and complainants against the sovereign sway of the "King," self-styled "brother of the Saviour."

Charges sworn to by Ruth B. Reed and Gladys B. Rubel, his wife, as well as several civil suits, one of which seeks dissolution of the colony. Ready to appear against him is an array of witnesses brought to, ther in previous investigations and grand jury proceedings which have resulted in little.

Rewards for the capture of the "King" had been posted totaling approximately $100,000.

Woman Bared Cult Secrets. Three years ago a grand jury investigation conducted by Judge Harry J. Dingman of Detroit into the affairs of the cult brought forward Mrs. Woodworth as a complainant. At that time she told of her forced marriage at the king's command and related that young girls were brought to perform strange religious practices at the bidding of their leader.

It was she who furnished the information that the "King" still maintained his residence among his people and still exhaled power there.

QUEEN'S MISSION TO PUT ROMANIA ON MAP, SHE SAYS

"When You Belittle My Country, You Are Trampling on My Heart," Marie Tells Chicago.

PRINCESS ILEANA IN AUTO ACCIDENT

She Is Not Hurt When Her Car Collides With Truck at Grant Park, Ill., on Way to Indianapolis.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Queen Marie came to the United States "to put Rumania on the map," she said here yesterday. She added, "Remember, those of you who belittle Rumania, that you are treading on the heart of a Queen."

Queen Marie left Chicago at 12:43 p. m. for Indianapolis on the Big Four Railroad. The train was delayed more than half an hour by failure of three truck loads of baggage to reach the station on time. It was snowing heavily as she waved goodbye.

The Queen's morning was marked by some shopping done by proxy, a saleslady from a department store accepting the Queen's order from samples for four pairs of shoes. In addition, Marie bought eight trunks and an expensive fur coat, priced $180. She explained she needed such a coat for wear during the remainder of her American trip.

Fur Coat to Princess

Princess Ileana, daughter of the Queen, was presented with an expensive fur coat by Mrs. Nelson Morris, who was host to the royal party here.

Princess Nicolas and Princess Ileana departed for Indianapolis by automobile, ahead of the Queen's train.

The Prince and Princess each was at the wheel of an open car. In the car which the Prince drove were Col. C. C. Chambers, head master at Culver Military Academy, and Baron Rappe, the Prince's aid. With the Princess were Gene Culver of St. Louis, grandson of the academy's founder, Capt. Newton Knight and Miss Ida Marr, the Princess' governess.

Ileana in Auto Crash. Princess Ileana narrowly escaped injury when her automobile brushed fenders with a truck at a sharp curve in the road at Grant Park, 35 miles from Chicago.

The Princess sustained control of the machine, which was traveling about 25 miles an hour through a heavy snowstorm. A bent fender and smashed hub cap constituted the damage to her machine.

Princess Nicolas, who had gone ahead, unaware of the accident, returned in a few moments and asked his sister if she wanted to change cars, but she stayed in her seat. Before long the 50-mile an hour dash for Indianapolis was resumed.

Adolph Kofe of Chicago, driver of the truck, moved when he learned the Princess' identity. "Is that so," he said. "Well, my front fender is bent. Don't I get something for it. It was her fault. She was beyond the center of the road."

He looked at the Princess but did not speak to her. She was standing in the road, looking at the bent fender when the royal party moved on. When a stop was made later again to inspect the Princess' car, she decided to turn the wheel over to a chauffeur.

Princess Ileana was killed by Drive. It was a touring car with no side curtains and Ileana was thoroughly chilled. Snow began falling when the party was 20 miles out of Chicago. The Prince and Princess paid no attention to it for a time, but soon stopped while tops were put up. A newspaper man asked the Princess if she would rather have his sedan, but she replied, "Oh, no, thanks. I don't like closed cars even in the snow."

The automobiles passed through Danville, Ill., about 2:20 p. m. and headed east on the State road. It was surmised that the party decided to cut through to Indianapolis by way of Crawfordville. The party stopped at the office of Dr. H. F. Donovan, in Rossville, 20 miles north of here, where the Princess, exhausted by the trip, rested and got warm.

Leadens skies, almost continuous rain, with a touch of snow and cold weather have marked the royal visit, but have failed to quench the Queen's ready smile, except for the moment of tears when she spoke in the drawing room of the Union League Club yesterday.

To Defend Country Everywhere. "It is true that I have come to America to put Rumania on the map," she said in one of the most candid addresses ever uttered by royalty. "I am here and everywhere to defend my country, which is Rumania. It is my life, my work, my love, my children, my family, my all—the very essence of my existence."

Recalling her attendance at the Versailles Peace Conference, she continued: "When I went there—and shocked the world, perhaps—they asked me why I had come."

Farm Organization Leaders

DR. TAIT BUTLER of Memphis, editor of the Progressive Farmer, chairman of the All-Southern Cotton Committee, and permanent chairman of the St. Louis conference.

XENOPHON CAVERON of Canolou, Mo., president of the Missouri Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association and secretary of the St. Louis conference.

FARMERS DEMAND EARLY HELP; CALL BOTH PARTIES LAX

Any specific farm relief bill, he outlined in general terms a Federal farm board, with a minimum fund of $1,500,000,000 and power to purchase and withhold surplus cotton. Such a fund would insure the farmers cost of production and a 5 per cent profit, he declared.

"Should the United States go into business?" Brookhart asked himself and then replied: "During the war the United States went into the railroad business. Why shouldn't it go into business to save and protect the farmer?"

The cotton growers of Southern Missouri have not suffered nearly as much as the planters of other states because of the current low prices, according to Xenophon Caveron of Canolou, Mo., president of the Missouri Co-operative Association, and conference secretary.

"There are two reasons for this condition," Caveron explained. "One is that the Missouri cotton grower believed in diversified farming and the other is that the average crop in Missouri is large enough to compensate for the slump in price. I know of one planter who owns 2000 rich acres in Mississippi County who has only 500 acres in cotton."

Declares Purpose Realized

The conference did not form any permanent organization nor recommend any specific bill, Dr. Tait Butler of Memphis, the conference chairman, explaining it was not desired to form a heavy unwieldy organization of agriculturalists. He declared the purpose of the meeting—to create a feeling of unity and understanding between the farmers of the various sections—had been realized.

The legislation sought by the farmers, according to the declaration, is "legislation that will enable the farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at And I told them this: 'Every country has a face. When you select your gathering for your deliberations to save Rumania to have a face. I am here to be that face.'

"And I have come to America for the same reason. I hope you like my face here."

Sketches Rumanian History. She then sketched a bit of Rumanian history.

"We were a little people in Rumania, mistreated and suspected some years back. We chose our Prince, much as you select your Presidents, but there was nothing stable about our Government, so we decided to choose a King and have a permanent dynasty."

"Old King Charles was brought from Germany. He and his wife, Carmen Sylva, were children and the throne descended to the King's nephew, Frederick, and, of course, he had to have a wife.

"Perhaps Rumania thought it a guarantee to have a granddaughter of Queen Victoria on the throne. Anyway, I was chosen by the Prince, the King, the people."

"I was very young and had to learn my work with considerable struggle. In learning it I learned to love Rumania. And little by little the people began to think I was the right one. I have given the Rumanians six children who speak Rumanian and are Rumanians."

She ended with a plea to her listeners to love Rumania.

Holds Curtain at Opera. The Queen's last full day of activity here ended last night with a visit to the Chicago Civic Opera, where, incidentally, the curtain was held 20 minutes for the arrival of her party. Long before the start, the 3700 seats were occupied and great crowds waited outside for a glimpse of royalty.

The boxes were given over to the visitors, and as all other parts of the theater had been sold out long in advance, many men and women whose names appear in the social register crowded the two upper galleries and the balcony.

POLICE VETO PLAN OF ITALIAN GANG TO ARMOR 4 CARS

Orders Stop Work of Bullet-Proofing Two Machines for John Giannola, Feud Leader.

The plan of two leaders of the Italian gang in the bootleg feud to armor four automobiles so that, while retaining the appearance of the pleasure cars, they actually would be bulletproof, was thwarted today by Detective-Lieutenant Ben Hegeman and Sgt. Kourik, who found automobiles in two garages and persuaded the mechanics working on them that it would be inadvisable to continue.

One of the automobiles, on which work had begun, was a Lincoln coupe, bearing the license plates issued to John Giannola, wholesale sugar dealer and gang leader. A contract for the same kind of work on a Chrysler coach had also been let by him, the detectives learned.

The work of armoring two new Cadillac sedans, it was learned, had been set on hold by the police. One of the outstanding gunmen of the Italian faction in its feud with the Cuckoo gang.

Apparently it was the refusal of a Chicago armored car concern to sell a bullet-proof machine to a local gang leader that caused the Italian crowd to work out its own plans.

The detectives, who inspected the work being done on Giannola's coupe, reported that mechanics had removed the upholstery and placed a heavy plate of bullet-proof steel next the body frame of the car on the inside. When that work was finished the upholstery was to be replaced, completely masking the armor.

The plate glass had been removed from the windows and windshield and was to have been replaced by bullet-proof glass, which had been ordered from a manufacturing firm. In making the order a local gangster had placed it under an assumed firm name.

Hegeman and Kourik, warned the garage workers that should the armored cars be used in crimes an effort would be made to trace the mechanics charged with conspiracy.

"What would you do if one of these cars was used in a mail robbery?" he asked one man. "How would you like to be charged with the mail robbery?"

"I know when you started this work that the cars were to be used to no good end."

Agrees to Stop Work. Moved by this suggestion, one garage keeper announced he would take out the steel plate from Giannola's coupe and send the car back in the same condition as he got it.

The same announcement was made with respect to the Chrysler. Following up a campaign against the armoring of cars, police will broadcast an announcement that if any owner of a garage or mechanic should be charged with conspiracy should a car armored by him be used in the commission of a crime.

"We haven't been able to find out yet what all this new activity means," Detective Chief Kaiser said today. "It looks like the Italian gang intends to put on an offensive somewhere. They were sending real money for the work—$700 for the Chrysler, $400 for the Lincoln and more than those amounts for the Cadillac."

Lowden and Garaway Farmers. Lowden was the principal speaker of yesterday's session, introducing himself as a farmer on 1000 acres near Oregon, Ill. He was followed by Senator Garaway, who explained that he had a half interest in an Arkansas farm, and by Dr. B. W. Kilgore, president of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, who discussed the cotton situation.

Senator Garaway criticized the Lowden plan, agreeing with the new version of the McNary-Haugen Bill, the first two editions of which failed to muster sufficient strength in Congress. The new McNary-Haugen Bill is known as a "Farm Surplus Control" instrument.

FILIPINOS NOTIFY WOOD THEY WILL IGNORE HIS ORDER

Quezon and Roxas Will Serve as Members of Board of Control Despite Its Abolishment.

By the Associated Press. MANILA, Nov. 17.—Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, and Speaker Roxas of the House of Representatives, executive members of the Insular Board of Control, which was abolished last week by an executive order by Governor-General Leonard Wood, have notified the chief executive that they would ignore his order.

The legislators announced yesterday that they would continue to act as members of the board until the law under which it was created is repealed by the Legislature, annulled by Congress, or voided by the courts.

A test of the controversy probably will come Saturday when the National Coal Co. "The Board of Control has authority over the directorate of this company and other Government corporations."

Twenty-six members of the Insular Legislature in a conference here today completed "a most vigorous protest against the arbitrary acts and usurpations of Governor-General Wood, particularly against the executive order abolishing the Board of Control."

The protest points out that the first 20 years of civil government was "marked by mutual understanding and loyal co-operation between Americans and Filipinos," but with the coming of Gen. Wood as Governor-General things changed.

"His conduct of the Government has been characterized by a train of usurpations and arbitrary acts resulting in curtailment of our autonomy, destruction of our constitutional system and a reversal of America's Philippine policy," the protest declared.

The protest enumerated 22 instances wherein Wood is charged with usurping power.

The Quezon-Roxas communication to Wood reads:

"In accordance with the views expressed in our communication of Nov. 13 to the effect that laws creating the Board of Control cannot be considered abolished by executive order, we have the honor to inform you that we have not intended to resign our seats as members of the board."

Child, Shot in Brain, Dies After Four Months

Norma Christian, 3 Years Old, Succumbs in Relapse After Recovering Sufficiently to Walk.

After living for nearly four months with a bullet hole through her brain, Norma Christian, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Christian, 2181A Franklin avenue, died at 2 a. m. today at City Hospital.

She succumbed to a cerebral abscess following almost complete recovery from the wound. Surgeons had drawn a rubber tube through the path of the bullet from the left side of the forehead to the back of the head and this was used to drain the wound. Despite an open hole through her head, the child had rallied sufficiently to walk about and had been taken home Oct. 22.

A relapse came on Nov. 8 and she was taken back to the hospital. Surgeons discovered that a second brain abscess had formed along the course of the unhealed wound. They operated Monday for removal of this abscess.

Norma was unable to rally from the shock of the operation.

Accidentally Shot July 20.

She was accidentally shot last July 20 by her sister, Ruth, 6. The children were playing on a bed at their home and Ruth found her father's revolver under a pillow. She drew the weapon, .38 caliber, from the holster and snapped it at Norma. A bullet was discharged, striking Norma over the left eye and plowing through her brain, fracturing the skull as it came out.

Surgeons who examined the unconscious child at City Hospital marvelled that she was not dead. They decided after probing that the bullet had missed all the so-called "dead centers" or control convolutions and Norma's brain could still function to sustain life.

"On the contrary, they have been in force and acted upon by you and other executives of the Government for a number of years, and their validity previously has been recognized in many instances by legal departments of both the Federal and Insular Governments."

"Such being the case, we feel that we are in conscience bound to abide by these laws until they either are repealed by the Legislature, annulled by the United States Congress or declared unconstitutional by the courts."

Waterfront Work Ideas Sought. A party of 15 city officials, representatives of business and members of the City Plan Commission will go to Chicago tonight to examine waterfront improvements there and to learn of plans which might be adaptable to the St. Louis riverfront. The City Plan Commission now is considering a plan for such an improvement.

MAN SHOTS HIS WIFE AND SELF DURING ROW

John D. McCullom, in Note, Says Woman Refused to Prepare Coffee.

In the presence of his daughter and grandchild, John D. McCullom, 53 years old, 4423 Delmar boulevard, yesterday seriously wounded his wife, Mary, 41, and then turned the weapon, a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun, upon himself. While lying wounded on the floor he then wrote a note telling his reason for the act.

An argument began shortly before 3 p. m. yesterday when McCullom threw eggs at his wife when she refused to prepare some coffee. He walked out of the kitchen, where this encounter had taken place, saying to Mrs. Roy Lawson, a boarder, "I just threw two eggs at my sweetheart."

Boarder Calls Policeman. He became angered, running into his bedroom and seizing the gun. Mrs. Lawson ran out of the house screaming and called Patrolman Joseph Boggs, attached to the Pace Boulevard District, who was off duty and driving past the house in his auto. Boggs ran into the house, his revolver in his hand.

He met McCullom at the foot of the stairway, where he was reloading his shotgun. Mrs. McCullom lay wounded on the floor. Upon seeing Boggs McCullom first leveled his weapon at the policeman, then apparently changing his mind, he placed the gun's muzzle to the right side of his own jaw and fired. As he lay at his wife's side he asked for paper and pencil. Writing with difficulty he scrawled: "I shot my wife twice. I killed myself. This fight started years ago when I tried to correct my children. I was sick and she wouldn't even get me some coffee." At the home it was stated that Mrs. McCullom told her husband there was no coffee in the house but he refused to believe her.

Daughter Sees Shooting. Mrs. Minnie Schriber, daughter of McCullom, whose husband committed suicide in the same house two years ago, witnessed the shooting of her mother, and then fled with her four-year-old daughter to a neighbor's house.

McCullom was a coal miner but has not worked for eight years, his wife operating a rooming house at the Delmar boulevard address. At the City Hospital it was found Mrs. McCullom was shot in the right hand and breast.

Arrested After Reporting Robbery.

Policemen summoned to a cigar store at 618 Hamilton avenue at 2:30 p. m. yesterday to obtain a report of a $40 holdup in the store a few minutes before, found two racing forms and arrested the proprietor, Thomas Brannon, and his clerk, John Werner, 509 North Newstead avenue, on charges of "suspected of gambling." Brannon and Werner reported they were held up by two youths, who took $40 from Werner and then ran from the store.

PHONE RATE INCREASE TO STAND INDEFINITELY

Overlooked Appeal Taken by City of St. Louis Halts Deliberations.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17.—Increased business telephone rates, in effect in St. Louis for almost 17 months, may stand for a year or 18 months more as a result of a legal snag uncovered today when the Public Service Commission met here for a hearing on the question of their continuation.

The snag to the proceedings taken the shape of an appeal filed by the City of St. Louis in Supreme Court against a Circuit Court decision in the rate case. Overlooked since last March 28, when it reached the higher court, the appeal has the effect of calling a halt to the Public Service Commission's deliberations in the case, and in the opinion of lawyers here, probably will operate to continue present rates until the higher court hears and decides the appeal.

The origin of the suit, which the city has opposed, was granted by the commission on July 1, 1925, for a test period of 12 months. When it expired last July 31, the commission gave an extension of three months, so that an audit of the company's books might be completed, and later gave another three months' extension, which expires Jan. 31.

The commission reconvened this afternoon following a recess for investigation of the status of the appeal taken by the city from the decision of St. Louis Circuit Court, affirming the original increase in business telephone rates for a test period of 12 months.

When the increase was originally granted the city asked the Circuit Court to review the case. Its application for a writ of certiorari was overruled and it was then that the present appeal was taken.

Neither City Counselor Muench, nor Associate City Counselor Ferris knew of the filing of the appeal, they said today. After J. W. Jamison, general counsel for the Southern Bell Telephone Co., had announced it was pending. After its discovery a recess was taken to determine what action could be taken.

The effect on rates, it was explained, that the effect of an appeal in such cases is to keep the rates in statu quo, which probably would mean that the present rates would continue. The appeal, it is believed, by lawyers in the case would have the effect of invalidating the two extensions of rates granted by the commission but since it was taken before the expiration of the original order, the commission's appeal would have kept the increased rates in force anyhow, without the formality of additional orders.

Associate City Counselor Scott said today that he was of the collection he had filed the appeal as a technical step to allow the city to go over the Circuit Court's order if it came to later. He suggested it might be possible for the city to dismiss it before the Supreme Court, so that the hearing before the commission might proceed.

Health—or sickness!
The choice often rests with you

ONCE, the causes of many dangerous disorders such as kidney troubles, rheumatism, neuritis, seemed obscure to physicians. Then it was discovered that all too frequently such sicknesses developed from decayed teeth which distributed disease germs to other parts of the system.

Once you realize this danger it is up to you to make a choice. Will you "take a chance" of disease or will you safeguard your health by the proper care? If you decide on the safe side, remember this all-important fact:

You can clean the surfaces of your teeth, but no tooth-brush can reach between the teeth or into the little V-shaped crevices along The Danger Line, where teeth meet gums.

That is why Squibb's Dental Cream, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, was developed. Milk of Magnesia has been long known as a safe, effective antacid, and Squibb's Dental Cream contains more than 50 per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—an amount ample to neutralize dangerous mouth acids for a considerable time after use.

Thus Squibb's Dental Cream protects against decay in two ways. It cleans your teeth beautifully, and where the brush cannot clean it sends little particles of Milk of Magnesia to neutralize the harmful acids.

Isn't it common sense, then, to use Squibb's Dental Cream? At drug stores—40 cents a tube.

WANTS TO FINISH STATE HIGHWAYS IN NEXT 5 YEARS

Senator Painter Proposes Doubling Gasoline Tax and Adding Third to Auto License Fee.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CARROLLTON, Mo., Nov. 17.—The submission to the voters of an additional bond issue by the next Legislature to complete the 7600-mile State highway system several years before 1935, the date estimated by the Highway Department under the present law, is improbable. There is, however, prospect for new legislation which will not only build the present system by 1932, but will increase the State system to nearly 15,000 miles to include 11,000 miles of local county roads, all to be completed by 1936.

The plan has been worked out by State Senator William R. Painter of Carrollton, who has given much study to road financing, and who, as president pro tem of the State Senate, occupies a position of leadership in that body. His scheme briefly is:

Double the State gasoline tax to make it 4 cents a gallon. Increase by one-third the State automobile license fee.

Thus provide sufficient money to complete the State system by 1932 without an additional bond issue.

Provide for a $100,000,000 bond issue by 1930 to build 11,000 miles of gravel road which will reach the farms and small towns of the State, affording the individual citizens roads, creating an actual farm-to-market system and constructing a network of feeder lines by which the through roads which by about that time will have been completed.

Farm-to-Market Roads. Senator Painter's view, as outlined here today, is that while the 7600-mile system is a wonderful State development and was fully justified by the needs and progress of the State, it does not meet the real requirements, and that they will not be met until the State builds the feeder lines which will make the through roads accessible to rural communities as a whole. He said that the enlarged system he proposed would put every farm in the State within less than five miles of a hard-surfaced road.

"I look at the highway system just as I do at a railroad system," Painter said. "The high-type through lines of railroad are necessary, but they would be expensive luxuries without the feeder lines. You see railroad managements reaching out all the time to buy feeder lines. We must build them for our road system."

"A comparatively small percentage of the people of Missouri derive direct benefit from the high-type roads which we are now building, but virtually all of them will get direct benefit from these roads if we build the less expensive type I propose, and on which they can get to our high-type roads. Of what benefit is a concrete highway as a farm-to-market proposition to the farmer who is compelled to haul 20 miles over a dirt road to get to it?"

Cities Must Pay Most of the Cost. "The suggestion has been made to me that under this or any other State system of constructing such roads the heavy burden of paying for them must be borne by the larger cities while they would be used largely in restricted local commerce in the counties. That while true, is not a valid objection in my opinion. I believe the time has long since passed when the large cities and the rural districts had separate interests. The welfare of each is inseparably woven with that of the other. I think there are few who will contend that the cities can be prosperous without a prosperous condition in the rural communities. That which helps one will help the other.

"It is definitely certain that the counties of the State cannot be themselves build these needed roads. They have not the money to do it. The producing wealth of the State is in the thickly populated communities and if the roads are built a very large part of the money to build them must come from those places where the wealth is."

Senator Painter quoted from statistics furnished by the State Highway Department in leading up to his conclusions as to the proper procedure in road building.

Estimates Revised Upward. He directed attention to the fact that while the original estimate of the cost of constructing the 7600-mile system was $156,000,000, experience had demonstrated the necessity for building heavier roads at some places than had been planned, and of building concrete roads some places where it had been planned to build gravel roads. This experience had caused a revision of estimates and it was now reasoned that $212,000,000 would be the total cost of that system. To the present time the department has let contracts amounting to $105,000,000, leaving $107,000,000 needed to complete the system. The estimate of receipts for road building up to 1935 is $38,732,065, or $68,267,935 less than is needed, but as receipts for several years

A Laxative That's Doing A Great Work

Users of Feen-a-mint soon realize they have discovered a new efficiency in this popular remedy for constipation.

Sincere and truthful appreciation rings in these words from an Alabama man concerning

Feen-a-mint
The Chewing LAXATIVE

"I have never been inclined to have a very exalted opinion of patent medicines as I have suffered with indigestion and constipation about twenty-five years and spent a nice little sum on doctors and drugs of all kinds with little or no results. By mere chance, or accident, I was handed one of your Feen-a-mint tablets as a 'joke' about a month ago and the result was so marvelous I decided there might be some virtue in them for my case and since giving them a trial I have received most wonderful results to such an extent I feel like giving you this unsolicited praise and trust that you will accept it in the true spirit in which it is given. Your very truly, E. O. W."

When you need a laxative, be sure and get Feen-a-mint from your druggist. Accept no substitute. Feen-a-mint does so much for such sufferers they are loud in its praise.

have consistently exceeded the estimates it is expected they will equal the apparent deficit.

Working under the present plan, virtually all the bonds having been sold, the system cannot be completed before 1935 unless there is an additional bond issue or additional funds are provided in some other way.

"There has been some agitation for a bond issue," Senator Painter said, "and it has found favor with some people, and yet there has developed considerable opposition to it. But the people want the roads built."

Objects to Bond Issues.
He then entered into a detailed explanation of his plan, asserting that he offered it for consideration in the hope that it would meet with favor, though without any intention of attempting to jam it through the Legislature if it were not what was wanted. He did not declare outright opposition to an immediate bond issue, but it was clear he did not favor one. If he should oppose it there would be little likelihood that it would be submitted. He believes that bonds are wasteful unless there is no way of getting improvements without them.

"The pay-as-you-go system saves money," he said. "If the people want the highway system, as at present laid out, completed during the year 1931 they can see it accomplished without issuing bonds. If there is a temporary increase in the gasoline tax to 4 cents a gallon and an increase of one-third in the automobile license fees, the system can be completed and paid for by that time. It should be provided that these increases should automatically be done away with and the taxes drop back to their present rate when the roads are finished."

Painter's Figures.
"The gasoline tax increase for that period would amount to $430,000, and that of the automobile license would be $12,375,660, a total from the increases of $42,602,410. Add to this the $65,175,200 the estimated receipts for that period under the present tax rates and you have $108,177,610, the amount needed to complete the system."

"An issue of bonds would not complete the roads quicker, because it has been shown by the experience of the department that the amount of work physically possible is limited to about $20,000,000 a year."

"With the present system completed, I personally favor the building of the real roads of the State, the roads that reach the farms and small towns. In 1920 or perhaps earlier a vote should be taken on a proposition to issue $100,000,000 in bonds for the exclusive purpose of building the home or farmers' roads. This would provide for about 11,000 miles of first-class gravel roads, about 3000 miles more than we have in the present system, making 18,640 miles for the entire system. It would put practically every home on a hard-surfaced road."

Reckoning the Cost.
"At first thought there might be objection to this on the ground of cost, but if the plan is carried out nobody will pay one cent more for road building than he is paying today."

"In all these estimates the cost of operating the department, interest on bonds now issued and the cost of collecting the tax and making payments on the principal of bonds have been deducted and only the net amount that can be used for road building is considered."

"The estimated net receipts of the department in 1932 and each year following for the period under consideration, is under the present law $12,500,000. The expense when $100,000,000 of bonds have been issued, the interest at 4 1/2 per cent decreasing $212,500 each year, would be $4,250,000. Payment of principal on the bonds would be $5,000,000 and maintenance would take $2,500,000, a total of $11,750,000 which would leave an annual surplus of $1,750,000. This could be used on roads or to reduce taxes."

"You would buy 11,000 miles of road for a very small sum. I hope the matter will be given serious consideration by the people."

A Choice of Plans.
The State has several choices: "Do nothing and have the present system completed in 1934."

"Issue bonds and complete the present system in 1931, and make it the final and complete system."

"Increase the gas and auto tax, pay as you go and complete the roads in 1931."

"In 1931 or earlier issue $100,000,000 of bonds and build 11,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads within five miles of every farm and put all towns and villages in the State on hard-surfaced roads."

"It should be remembered that if bonds are issued to complete the present system, there will be no money for 20 years to increase the mileage, as all the available funds will be taken to meet the bond issue requirements, operate the department and provide maintenance."

There is nothing in Senator Painter's plan which would interfere with the State Highway Department's control of all road building with State money. He does not advocate turning over State funds to county courts or local communities. He would permit the counties to select the roads to be built but would subject their decisions to approval by the State Highway Department. He would have all roads built by the department and constructed along recognized engineering lines.

COMMITTEES AT WORK ON GRANGE FARM AID PROGRAM

National Sessions Adjourned to Facilitate Shaping of Recommendations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 17.—The National Grange yesterday adjourned its sessions to permit committees to work on the farm relief program which the organization will recommend to Congress for enactment.

It was indicated that the principal part of this program would deal with the export debenture plan suggested by a resolution introduced by Eugene A. Eckert, master of the Illinois State Grange, under which Congress is asked to enact legislation making such a plan operative on next year's crop. Two other resolutions presented by A. G. Ensor of Maryland, asked the Grange to go on record in favor of a higher tariff on tomatoes and a more rigid inspection of public service corporations. Hardware Dealers Hold Banquet. The St. Louis Retail Hardware

JURY FIXES $3500
AS SURGEON'S FEE
FROM VAN RAALTE

Dr. M. G. Seelig Obtains Judgment Against Wealthy Realty Operator
for Services in 1924.

After testimony and instructions had been completed yesterday in the suit of Dr. Major G. Seelig of 4952 Parkview place, against Simon
Van Raalte, wealthy realty operator of 68 Washington trace, to collect a $10,000 fee for professional services, the jury in Circuit Judge Killoren's Court retired to deliberate.

One juror proposed a verdict in favor of Dr. Seelig for $5000. Another juror thought $1500 sufficient. The 12 jurors talked it over and compromised on judgment for $3500 and interest, a total of $3750.
The question of a fee for Dr.
Seelig's attorney also was discussed, and one juror suggested an additional allowance for that purpose, but withdrew the suggestion when told: "We don't have to worry about the lawyer's fee—
that lawyer can take care of himself."

So the $3750 verdict was returned, and both Dr. Seelig and Van Raalte seemed satisfied.

Van Raalte Hurt in 1924.

Van Raalte, 71 years old, was run down by an automobile Oct.
15, 1924, after leaving the Columbian Club, and was attended for eight months by Dr. Seelig and Dr.
Philip Hoffmann. He suffered brain concussion, fractured nose and leg and other injuries. He paid Dr.
Hoffmann's bill for $1500, but declined to pay Seelig's bill for $5000, alleging it was exorbitant. Seelig sued for a $10,000 fee.

For the plaintiff, Mrs. Malvern
B. Clopton, Everts A. Graham and William T. Coughlin gave testimony that the services performed by Dr. Seelig were worth at least $15-000, because of Van Raalte's wealth, age and condition and because of Dr. Seelig's knowledge, skill and labors. They said a surgeon based his fee largely on the financial ranking of the patient, charging little or nothing for a poor man, and a "handsome" fee for a wealthy one. Also, they said, the surgeon's experience and knowledge must be considered, and not only the mere mechanical labor performed.

Dr. Hoffman Satisfied.

Dr. Hoffman testified that he thought it all right that Seelig should be paid more than he was, as he specialized on Van Raalte's right leg, fractured in eight places, while Seelig treated all the injuries and had the greater responsibility.

A nurse in charge of Van Raalte
at the Jewish Hospital testified that Van Raalte had been an "obstinate, contrary patient, hard to handle."

Van Raalte, patient and defendant, was the only defense witness.

"When I got that bill for $5000,

I asked Dr. Seelig what he had done for me to charge all that,"

Van Raalte testified. "He told me I was charging for what he didn't do. Later he told me the bill should have been twice as much."

Van Raalte denied he had been an obstinate patient, and explained
he had been in great pain. He denied calling his doctors at all hours of the night, and said he had made a special call only once.

Asserting his right leg was now about two inches shorter than the left, Van Raalte removed his right shoe and showed the jury that he wears a special sole in this shoe

to offset the difference.

THREE MENTIONED FOR ST. LOUIS DRY CHIEF

Wark, Cunningham and Fable Suggested to Succeed Alroy S. Phillips.

Three prohibition officials are being discussed as leading candidates for the place of Alroy S. Phillips, who yesterday resigned as Federal Prohibition Administrator for this district to become chairman of the new State Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The candidates are George Wark of Topeka, Kan., Deputy Administrator for Kansas; W. Frank Cunningham, Chief Deputy Administrator in charge of the St. Louis District, and Frank Fable, also of Topeka, now a member of the legal staff at the local prohibition office.

Wark, who had a distinguished record as an infantry colonel in the World War, undoubtedly has first call on the job. When the position was created he was named for the place, but declined it, because he preferred to remain in Kansas. It was then awarded to Louis H. Brewer, now United States District Attorney, and Col. Wark was made his Kansas deputy.

It is likely that Wark will refuse the place again when it is offered him. In that event, the next strongest candidate is Fable, a field artillery officer during the World War and a friend of Wark.

Fable, a graduate of Kansas University and a lawyer, has the same backing as Wark, that of Senators Curtis and Capper of Kansas, who are sure to dictate the appointment in the absence of a Republican Senator from Missouri. He is one of the youngest ranking officials in the prohibition service.

The third candidate, Cunningham, was also a World War officer. He has been in prohibition service for six years, working up from prohibition agent to an official birth. Whether his political backing is as strong as that of the other two, however, is doubtful.

The prohibition administrator for this district has a territory which includes Kansas, Missouri and until recently 23 counties in Southern Illinois.

Emperor's Illness Still Town.

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—The town of Hayama, in which Emperor Yoshihito lies ill, is quite in deference to his Majesty. Sounds of gaiety are suppressed. The Geisha music and dancing in the town which the Mayor ordered stopped, has not been resumed. It had not been permitted in the apartments of the sovereign, as erroneously stated. In these there is solemnity, with the Empress directing the ministrations upon the Monarch. The illness of the Emperor has responded to treatment. His appetite has improved, and his condition is said not to be serious.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color of the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ANGLICAN CANON
DENOUNCES DUCAL
WEDDING RULING

Rector of St. Margaret's, London, Says Nullification of Marlborough-Marriage Is Scandalous.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Rev.
William Hartley Carnegie, rector of St. Margaret's Anglican Church and Canon of Westminster, said today
he indorsed every word uttered by Bishop Manning of New York in protest against the annulment by the Roman Catholic Church of the marriage of Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough.
Speaking to a representative of the Associated Press, Canon Carnegie said he was equally amazed with Bishop Manning at the action of the Catholic Church in annulling an Episcopal marriage which had endured for 25 years and from which two children were born.
"It is perfectly scandalous and incredible," he said. "If such action could stand, no one's marriage would be safe."

Critic Popular at Court.
Canon Carnegie is one of the most influential divines in the Church of England and is popular at court. In addition to being canon of Westminster and rector of the fashionable St. Margaret's Church, adjoining Westminster Abbey, he is the chaplain of the House of Commons.

He has written voluminously on the Anglican creed and Christian doctrine. His wife formerly was Miss Mary Endicott of Boston, widow of Joseph Chamberlain.

"I am in entire agreement with what my friend, Dr. Manning, said, according to the reports published here," Canon Carnegie said. "Of course, I have not made a complete study of the case, which, after all, is no direct concern of ours, as we have our own problems."

This reference was to the church assembly at present sitting at Westminster.

"But I do not hesitate to say,"
he added, "that 999 out of 1,000
clergymen in the Church of England would fully indorse, as I do,
Dr. Manning's pronouncement."

Friends of the former Duchess of Marlborough who live in London, are anxiously awaiting the official reaction of the Anglican "church."
The position of the offspring of the Marlborough marriage is rather unique. They are the Marquis of Blandford, who was born in 1897,
is married and has two children,
and Lord Ivor Charles, born in 1898. In the eyes of the Roman Catholic Church the marriage from which they sprung did not exist,
but a Roman Catholic authority has explained that the decree of nullity from the Vatican has no legal force and therefore in the eyes of the civil law, the Marlborough offspring are in no way affected.

From Rome come advices of astonishment over the adverse criticism of the nullification of the marriage. This was attributed by one Vatican official to ignorance on the part of those dissenting
from the decision of the Dicastery Court in England and the Sacred Rota Tribunal in Rome of the scrupulous care which is taken in accordance to ascertain whether any impediment exists to warrant annulment of a marriage.

In order that there should be no suspicion of discrimination in such cases, the official added, all decisions of Dicastery Courts must be submitted to the rota, made up of twelve members from principal Catholic countries and constituting the Supreme Court of Justice of the Roman Church.

The Vatican spokesman pointed out that annulment of marriages were granted only when cases were amply proved. It was pointed out that Pope Clement VII, notwithstanding threats of gravest consequences, steadily declined to annul
the marriage of Henry VIII to Catherine of Aragon, also that an annulment was denied in the case of Prince Respighi, head of a Catholic family.

Report That Consuelo Will Remarry Second Husband in January.
Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Nov. 17.—It is reported that Col. Jacques Balsam will be remarried to his wife, the former Duchess of Marlborough, with Catholic rites when she rejoins her husband in Paris next January.
This is now possible, since the annulment granted by the Catholic authorities makes her divorce from the Duke of Marlborough non-existent in the eyes of the church.
The reason the Duchess, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, married Col.
Balsam by the ceremony of the Church of England in the chapel of the Royal Savoy in 1921 was that it was impossible for her then to conclude a Catholic marriage, due to the divorce.

A Catholic ecclesiastic here stated that remarriage is unnecessary unless the Balsams wish it, as the church now recognizes them as husband and wife.

What Bishop Manning Said of the Annulment.
Dr. William T. Manning, head of the Episcopal Diocese in which the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding took place in 1895, was quoted as saying in an interview Saturday:

"It seems incredible to me that the Roman Catholic Church, which takes so strong a position against divorce, should show such discrimination in favor of the Duke of Marlborough, who, because of the circumstances of his divorce and remarriage (to Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston), was debarred by the present bishop of Oxford from attending the Oxford Diocesan Conference in 1922.

"It would be a serious thing indeed, and most dangerous in its implications, if the Roman Catholic Church should claim the right to annul a marriage such as this,
which was entered into in entire good faith, which resulted in the birth of two children, and which was accepted as binding by both parties to it for many years."

Opening Our New Service Floor Monday

Greater customer convenience the reason for doubling the floor space of Union Electric Light and Power Co.'s main office building at Twelfth Boulevard and Locust Street.

We now have 230,000 customers in St. Louis and St. Louis County. We are selling these customers, primarily, service. It is a service that is essential to the life, health and business of this community—as essential as water or heat; almost as essential as the very air we breathe. . . . Consequently we must make it a service that can be had promptly and easily. That is exactly what we are striving to do in opening our new Service Floor and otherwise remodeling our building. . . . We are making it easier for customers to order Electricity for their homes; easier to exchange burned-out lamps for new lamps, free....easier to shop for those labor-savers for the home....easier to pay bills....easier—and far more pleasant in our bright, new quarters—for our customers to transact business with us. . . . And above all, easier for this company to render better public service and that is our constant, earnest effort—better public service.

FOLLOWING IS A GUIDE TO OUR REARRANGED BUILDING

FIRST FLOOR Order Service Here • No contracts to sign for residence service; just a minute at our new service counter along the west wall and electricity will be awaiting you in your new home. Incandescent Lamps • New lamps for old, free of charge—those sizes and types best adapted to home lighting. Pay Bills Here • A new row of cashiers' windows where bars are abolished and we meet our customers face to face. "Information" • Just inside the entrance; a place to learn quickly where to go to com- mand the many services that we are eager to put at the disposal of our customers. Appliances • A beautiful new room where guaranteed, dependable labor savers for the home can be bought and paid for in easy payments with light bills. Portable Lamps • A beautiful new sec- tion showing "lamps from all the world"— imported, artistic creations to impart color and charm to the home.	SECOND FLOOR Adjustment of Bills • Explanation of any charge that is not clear; the correction of errors which creep into bills occasion- ally; the place where we will smooth out any misunderstandings to the satisfaction of our customers. Duplicate Bills • To replace the bill that is lost or has been misplaced. Securities Department • More than 22,250 of our customers are our partners through their purchase of $21,000,000 of the supersafe preferred stocks of this com- pany and its related companies. THIRD FLOOR Electrical Distribution Department Here you can learn when your meter will be connected; when your service will be installed. Industrial Salesmen • Engineers who are ready to tell how electricity can improve and cheapen the process of manufacture. Commercial Salesmen • Engineers to solve lighting and power problems for business houses. Appliance Repairs • Sales Manager

It now will be unnecessary for our customers to go above the third floor of our building. All of the services which we are eager to render have been brought together for greater public convenience.

Two Killed in Fight Over Gloves.

DRYS MAKE PLANS FOR 1928 CAMPAIGN

Object Is to Prevent Nomination of Wet Candidate and Block Beer Platforms.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—A vigorous campaign to combat the "movement to nominate a wet candidate for the presidency and to insert a wet plank in the national party platforms" has been mapped out for the Antislavery League.
The organization's Executive Committee, meeting here yesterday to consider the wet-and-dry aspects of the new Congress, evolved three general strategic projects to meet the "challenge" of modificationist forces in the campaign leading up to the 1928 presidential race.
Particular emphasis was placed upon efforts to reach "the indifferent voter with information on the issues involved, and to arouse the nonvoter to the need for his exercise of the franchise to defeat the highly organized wet minority."
It also contemplated immediate expansion of the league's "educational" program, which has been relaxed since ratification of the eighteenth amendment and invigoration of the organization activities.
The Legislative Committee was directed to work diligently for enactment of measures to elevate the status of the prohibition enforcement unit to the rank of a separate bureau of the Treasury Department, and to place prohibition agents under civil service.
A special committee was authorized to study the proposal of Assistant Secretary Andrews for replenishment of the diminishing supplies of medicinal liquor. The league's attitude on this question will not be determined until Andrews' bill has been completed and examined in detail.
With respect to the Nov. 2 elections, the committee reiterated the view expressed by league officials that the returns "gave positive evidence of the popular support of the eighteenth amendment," and that the "wet vote recorded on the referendum propositions was less than on similar propositions at previous elections."

PNEUMONIA, NOT TETANUS, CAUSED SCHOOLBOY'S DEATH

Experiment on Guinea Pigs Fails to Bear Out Vaccination Cause Theory.
Death by bronchial pneumonia was the verdict today at Coroner's inquest into the death on Nov. 8 of Russell Skyles, 6 years old, of 1705A North Thirteenth street. The suspected cause was tetanus following vaccination in the Webster public school on Oct. 18. A family physician so pronounced the cause.

Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, bacteriologist, reported he had found no evidence of tetanus, but had found bronchial pneumonia. Injections from the boy's viscera into guinea pigs had disclosed no tetanus in the pigs which would have followed, Dr. Gradwohl said, if the boy had died from that cause.

The Dotted Line

symbolizes the sale. Dotted line results from advertising are those that bring customers into the store and up to the counter to ask for your goods.

The tips in this book will aid the advertiser to win the Chicago Market*

No matter what you are selling you can be well advised by Chicago's retail space buyers. They are interested in "dotted line" results . . . in cash sales from every line of advertising.

THOSE who know most about selling goods in Chicago are the ones who have the most goods to sell.

Chicago's "Loop" is the greatest retail market in the world . . . nowhere else can be found concentration of such volume . . . $275,000,000 yearly . . . stores with departments selling every conceivable kind of merchandise.

If there are any short-cuts to success in a market, certainly these retail merchants know them. The opinion of those who have so successfully developed this market is priceless!

It is most significant that department stores in Chicago, whether in the "Loop" or in outlying districts, depend more on The Daily News than on any other Chicago paper to move merchandise. The new book, "The Dotted Line," illustrated above, deals plainly with the results you, too, can get.

The consideration that moves the retail space buyer to use space in any paper is: will it sell goods?—will it bring buyers to-morrow?

In the first nine months of 1926 more than 39% of all the department store lineage used in Chicago papers, daily and Sunday, appeared in The Daily News . . . MORE THAN TWICE the volume any other daily or Sunday paper carried.

It takes The Daily News to sell the most goods in Chicago.

* The Chicago Trading Territory, as acknowledged by all Chicago newspaper members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, is the area within 40 miles of Chicago.

YOU cannot hope to be as successful with other methods—which retail merchants have found wanting.

A tremendous buying power lies within the Chicago Market*—where The Daily News has 94% of its circulation. The greatest factor in moving goods in this responsive area is The Daily News. Otherwise retail space buyers would not spend the bulk of their appropriations in this paper.

Why is The Daily News so important a factor in selling goods in Chicago? What conditions exist to justify this overwhelming preference of retail merchants?

With this book, which we are asking permission to send you, with the compliments of The Daily News, you can be well informed on the Chicago newspaper and merchandising situation. You need it to get the whole picture.

Write Today This significant book, entitled "The Dotted Line," gives a dramatic and timely picture of the advertising and merchandising situation in Chicago. If you are selling or plan to sell goods in Chicago, you can benefit by knowing the methods used by those who are already successful. A copy will be sent free to business or advertising executives who write for it on their business stationery. Address The Daily News, 15 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

LINCOLN LETTERS TO ELDER BENNETT FOUND IN TRUNK

Correspondence of Civil War Period Discloses Friendship Between President and Editor.

TANTON DEFENDED IN ONE LETTER

Note Dated Feb. 20, 1865, Promised to Publisher the Appointment as Minister to France.

Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Letters from Abraham Lincoln to James Gordon Bennett, founder and owner of the old New York Herald, are coming to light with the order of the executors of the estate of James Gordon Bennett II to sell at public auction a group of documents and letters. They will be sold at the Anderson Galleries next Tuesday afternoon. The letters are never been published. The letters record a friendship that developed between the chief executive and the journalist during the Civil War, when Bennett was Lincoln and the Union cause equalled support. They have lain in a trunk, recently placed in the galleries, where they were looked like sweepings from an attic floor. They are now on public exhibition.

Private and Confidential. The letters from Lincoln start with one Sept. 28, 1861, marked "Private and Confidential" and ascribing Bennett that no discrimination is intended by the executive against the Herald. It reads in part:

"Last evening Mr. Wickoff asked me for a pass, or permission to a gentleman. I was to accompany our vessels down the Potomac today, as a reporter for the Herald, saying that the Secretary of the Navy had refused, when I asked the privilege to report on other papers. It was too late tonight for me to see the Secretary, and I had to decline giving permission, because the Secretary might have a sufficient reason shown to me. I write this to assure you that the administration will not discriminate against the Herald especially while it sustains us so generously, and the cause of the country so ably as it has been doing."

The letter is signed, "Your obedient servant, A. Lincoln." Following this is a letter of May 1862, wherein Lincoln mentions Hunter's proclamation and a counter-proclamation issued by himself and Stanton, Secretary of War. Again he thanks Bennett for support given through the Herald to what he thinks is the true cause of the country and also for a kind personal expression.

I wish to correct an erroneous impression of yours in regard to the Secretary of War. He makes no politics whatever with his duties as nothing of Gen. Hunter's proclamation, and he and I alone set up the counter-proclamation," says the letter.

Promised to Make Him Envo. In other correspondence, dated Nov. 4, 1864, Lincoln is quoted as saying: "I expect to do it (appoint Bennett Minister to France) certainly as I do to be re-elected myself, etc."

This was followed, not long before the assassination, by the last sent by Lincoln to Bennett, dated Feb. 20, 1865. It is written on lined paper and shows in the addressing the strain of that period on Lincoln. It is almost terse, proposing "to nominate me to the United States Senate as Minister to France." This is followed by the customary "Your obedient servant, A. Lincoln."

Other letters from Mary Lincoln to Bennett are in the collection, which also contains a wealth of important documents and photograph letters gathered by the publisher.

MAKING READY FOR AIR RAIDS

War Office Counts on Subways as Safety Zones. LONDON, Nov. 17.—The British War Office, the Westminster Gazette reports, is laying plans for air raids in the next war. Soldiers and tunnels are tabularly hiding capacity, and yesterday picked men of the guards regiment spent several hours in the tunnels belonging to the postoffice, conveying the mails from London to Paddington station. The men were wearing their endurance on a minimum of fresh air and were watched by sentries.

saying: "I expect to do it (appoint Bennett Minister to France).
Certainly as I do to be responsible myself, etc."

This was followed not long before the assassination, by the last letter sent by Lincoln to Bennett, dated Feb. 20, 1865. It is written on lined paper and shows in the folding the strain of that period on Lincoln. It is almost terse in its expression. It is addressed to the United States Senate Minister to France. This is replied with the customary "Your Servant, A. Lincoln."

number of important documents and

Text of Farmers' Declaration Of Principles, Seeking Union Of Rural and Urban U. S.

Chiefs of Commerce, Industry, Finance and Labor Are Urged to Help Map Out Constructive Farm Program.

THE text of the declaration of principles adopted last night by farmer organization leaders of six Southern and six Northern states, in conference in St. Louis on the problem of agricultural relief, was made public at the closing session of the two-day conference today. It follows:

Co-operation Between South and West: The states of the Middle West and the South are predominantly agricultural, and they have common economic interests which justify and should bring about unity of thought and action.
We are gratified over the progress made during the last winter in bringing together the cotton growers of the South, the wheat growers of the West and the corn and meat producers of the North Central states in support of a joint legislative program in Congress. We express the earnest hope that this conference will cement the relationships already established and promote continued unity of thought and action in behalf of a national program for American agriculture.
We extend cordial greetings to the farmers of the East and express confidence in their hearty co-operation in carrying out the purposes herein suggested.

Cities Dependent Upon Agriculture: Great cities have developed throughout the agricultural regions of the United States for no other reason than to serve the great agricultural areas. The cities are the natural life and prosperity are essential if these cities are to live. A semblance of urban prosperity may result from the period of farm depression, accompanied by high city wages, which drains wealth from the country into the city, but its continuance is only temporary, and eventually these cities will rise or fall with the country upon which they depend. We appeal for recognition of this harmony of interests in a conscious program which will unite city and country in the effort to obtain the common economic interests of the agricultural sections of the country.

Exodus From Farms Threatens Labor: In this connection we desire to warn the leaders of American labor that the ever increasing drift of hundreds of thousands of farm workers to the cities may sooner or later produce a demor-alizing over-supply of labor, and therefore, if our working men would make secure their present generous standard of living, they should do everything in their power to bring about a return of a condition of wholesome continent on the farm. Not only does the collapse of agriculture menace
the security of labor, but it should be apparent to all thinking men that we cannot hope to maintain our industries in full time operation unless the purchasing power of the 35,000,000 people who live upon the farm is restored at an early date.

Support of Other Interests Asked:
We solicit the support of organized commerce, finance, industry and labor in securing a fair and rational policy for agriculture; however, we look with disfavor upon any movement of business organizations to initiate an agricultural program independently of farmers' organizations.

Control of surplus: As a practical and immediate move to secure for agriculture a just and proper share of the national income and a position of equality with other industries in our national economy, we favor legislation that will enable farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at their own expense, so as to secure cost of production with a reasonable profit. We assert our conviction that such legislation must function through and foster co-operative marketing.

Variable yields and prices: While average cost of production of farm products is fairly constant from year to year, the prices received by farmers frequently vary as much as 50 per cent from one year to the next. No business can be stable and prosperous unless prices are stable. The prices of agricultural products vary. The same acreage may produce widely different yields in different years, hence certainty of yield can not be attained, even by control of acreage. Weather, plant diseases and insect pests will continue to influence production in spite of all that man can do.

Any production program which would avert surplus production in normal years, would bring scarcity to the point of famine in bad crop years. The alternation of extremely low and unduly high prices resulting from unavoidable variations in yields is harmful alike to producers and consumers. It up-sets orderly production programs of farmers, interferes with normal consumption, increases risks and costs of marketing and subjects producers and consumers to the hazards of speculation. Wise management of surpluses will tend to stabilize prices for producers and insure adequate and dependable supplies for consumers.

Approve Gov. Lowden's Proposal:
We believe that the principles and methods advocated by former Governor Lowden in his address to this conference for the stabilization of basic products of agriculture if enacted into law would go far towards the solution of the problem of agricultural surpluses.
It strikes at the problem that is present in the chief farm products of the Midwest, South and West;
it would provide means for the producers to adjust supply to demand in their markets at fair and stable prices; it would broaden the basis of our national prosperity by restoring the purchasing power of agriculture, and we urge that its enactment should be the united aim of men from all sections who are conscious of the gravity of the agricultural situation and seek a way to meet it.

Welcome Constructive Aid: We welcome the constructive aid of all thoughtful men in perfecting these principles and making them effective through legislation, but we deprecate the spirit of criticism and fault finding which is barren of workable proposals.

The Cotton Question: We deplore
the disastrous decline in the price of cotton to a point far below the cost of production. We attribute this disaster not to reckless over-production, but to lack of adequate means of handling the temporarily unneeded part of the crop in ways that would make it a blessing to the world, and not a curse to cotton farmers. The world needs and will use profitably every bale of cotton produced this year, the excess above immediate needs being only a reasonable insurance against a short crop in future years. We place responsibility for present conditions upon those who defeated the bill in the last session of Congress which would have provided for a Federal Farm Board with ample powers and funds to anticipate and provide for the removal of the excess supply from the market and carry it until there is need for it at profitable prices.

Permanent Program for Cotton:
We believe the present collapse of the cotton market emphasizes the need for the further development of co-operative marketing by cotton farmers and for legislation which will strengthen their ability to carry on orderly marketing and make possible the carrying over of the surplus from year to year. The cotton farmer needs a permanent organization to take over the street railway system when the receivership is terminated.

When asked by Muench why the receiver was concerned with a return for the stockholders, Perkins declared it was the duty of the receiver to turn the property back to the owners after foreclosure in good condition and as a going concern. He said the receiver had the dual obligations of preserving the quities of the owners and preserving the property as a great public utility. He said the Federal District Court expected the receiver to bring the property out of receivership as soon as possible. The company has a long amount of outstanding securities, he said, and if reorganized without adequate means of financing, the property would be disrupted.

Questioned on Object.
"Do you want the fare raised for refinancing or to pay the cost of operating the system?" Muench asked. "Both reasons," Perkins replied. "The receiver is entitled to have a return on the property at the valuation fixed by the commission. If the property is going to be stranded and not permitted to keep up, no one is going to go into it for re-organization."

"Did you ever see a receivership pay dividends of the stock?"
Muench asked. "No," Perkins replied.
"Where does the return go?"
Muench continued.
"Wherever the Federal Judge decides it shall go," Perkins replied. "Claims are pending for accounts, judgments, bondholders, mill tax and other items. If anything is left, and there won't be,
it goes to the owners."

At this point Chairman T. J.
Brown of the commission interjected a ruling that the discussion was argumentative and should be left to the briefs.

Bus Competition Mentioned.
Muench raised a point in further questioning of Perkins that the losses in revenue by the company from motor bus competition could have been offset by proper management of the streetcar system.
Muench declared the receivership had been able to make improvements and extensions only to

MANAGER OF SYSTEM HAS DIFFERENT VIEW

Col. A. T. Perkins Asserts
It Is Duty Also of the Receiver to Protect Equity of the Owner.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17.—
The contention of the city of St.
Louis that the receiver of the United Railways Co. is charged only with preservation of the property, and is not entitled to make a return for the stockholders, was pressed by City Counselor Muench in a hearing before the State Public Service Commission yesterday on the receivers' application for an immediate increase in fare.

However, his development of the point in the record, through cross-examination of a company witness was cut short by the commission with a ruling that it was argumentative, and should be reserved for the attorney's briefs. The hearing was continued by the United Railways in operation of its St.
Louis County lines was approximately $500,000 a year. He said
the city car riders should not be required to make up deficits incurred on the county lines, and declared that if the county deficit was borne by the county lines, the company's payments for damages and injuries reduced to the average in other cities and economies practiced, no increase in fare would be necessary.

Smith presented figures tending to show that the company, since establishment in 1905 of a reserve for injuries and damages had collected $1,299,391 in excess of the actual payments, and that $822,594
of this reserve had been transferred to surplus in 1910-11-12. He said damages paid by the company in 1925 averaged 7.01 per cent of the gross revenues, as compared to an average of 4.18 per cent by street car companies in 12 other large cities.

Perkins said the annual depreciation charge of the company should be reduced from $1,500,000
to $1,200,000, stating the company from 1905 to the present time had accumulated $5,733,714 in its depreciation reserve in excess of the actual depreciation charges. He said the surplus had gone into various accounts, improvements, investments and retirement
of bonds, he said.

The company has contended it is earning a return of approximately 8 per cent on its valuation of $5,733,714 fixed by the commission as of Jan. 1, 1919, without considering $5,014,443 in net additions and betterments since that date.

Smith declared that adjustment of the valuation, with allowances for proper depreciation charges and deduction of nonoperation property would make the valuation $5,725,680, as of Sept. 30 last.

The hearing terminated at the close of cross-examination of the company witness offered by the city. After a conference, the attorneys for both the city and United Railways announced they would submit the case on the record without briefs.

Decision in Case Deferred.
The commission stated it would take the case under submission and would determine whether a separate decision would be given on the application for an immediate increase, or the case carried along and decided with the original application for an 8-cent fare now delayed pending completion of an audit.

At the close of the hearing Commissioner Porter asked if it was the city's position that the fares on lines in St. Louis County should be considered apart from the city.
Muench said the city was not ready to go fully into that question, until information was available on the cost of the city and county lines, but stated it was the city's position that the county lines should bear their fair share of the cost of the system and city car riders should not be saddled with any deficits on the county lines.

Mentioned to Head Amherst.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The New York World says there is widespread discontent among Amherst
of Dwight W. Morrow of J.
P. Morgan & Co. as a successor to President George Daniel Olds of Amherst, whose resignation was announced last week. Morrow, who is a trustee of the college, was considered in 1923 as a possible successor to Alexander Meiklejohn.
Morrow was graduated in 1895 at Amherst in the same class with President Coolidge.

The receivers applied for an im-

an audit by the commission in connection with an application by the receiver last June for an increase in fare from 7 to 8 cents.
That audit now is in progress.
C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, testified in his opinion

What Cost Mussolini?

BY OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD

End of Government by Passion, Corruption
And Force Will Find People Disappointed, Disillusioned and Discouraged.

(Reprinted by permission from The Nation.)

PARIS, Sept. 27.

SAID an important American diplomat the other day: "I am little interested in what returning Americans tell me about the great improvement in outward conditions in Italy—that the trains are running on time, that the country has been cleaned up, that the people are working, that there are law and order. Any tyrant can accomplish that. What I should like to know is what price Italy will pay for Mussolini about 25 or 30 years from now."

The truth is, of course, that one can pay far too high a price for order, efficiency and order. Yesterday I met a tourist just in from Rome who is enthusiastic in his praise of the new Italian regime.
He recited with the greatest satisfaction that the friend with whom he is traveling was fined 20 lire on a train near Milan because an official came through the car and found that the American had his shoes on the seat opposite. "And the streets! You should see how clean they are and how dirty they used to be!"

So it goes on every hand here in Paris. American worshippers of efficiency, of the god of getting things done, as well as our captains of finance and industry, make the air resound with paeans of praise for the man who "has put everybody to work and saved Italy from Bolshevism." It never occurs to them to ask the price that is paid for these things.

Well to Look Beneath Surface.

These adulators of Mussolini never look below the surface. It is true that Mussolini saved Italy
from Bolshevism?

There are many to dispute it. It is a slogan, a trade-mark, a catch-word, and so it is eagerly snapped up. Ask people for particulars and they tell you of the arrest of the automobile workers and others to control their factories in Turin, and speak of the bomb explosion in the Diana Theater in Milan.

Do they ever stop to inquire,
these enthusiastic Americans, as to the sources of their news about what Mussolini is doing and saying? Are they aware that the strictest kind of censorship exists in Italy, and that any man who criticizes the Dictator can be sent to jail for thirty months? Are they aware that Mussolini's speech or utterance, before being printed, has usually been revised and edited by the official press bureau?

Not Print Truth.

If they have heard that the entire opposition press has been suppressed in Italy, they have forgotten
it. They do not trouble to ascertain that no Italian daily dares to print an account of such a thing as the life of Mussolini until the story has been written precisely as Mussolini desires it to be told. [Mr Villard refers to the fifth attempt, of Sept. 11.—Ed.]

They assume that Italy is content and happy because they hear no protests against what is going on,
and they are not aware that he who criticizes the Dictator can immediately be sent to jail for months—jail immediately with no possibility of rescue by a habeas corpus proceeding, or any other legal device. In their laudation of Mussolini's law and order they remain in ignorance of the fact that the whole Italian judicial system smacks of the Middle Ages and is utilized by the Dictator to crush anyone who opposes his will. If they read of Italians of the highest standing, like Professor Salvemini, being deprived of their citizenship and all their property merely because of daring to criticize the despot, these Americans are not interested—no more than are our great financiers who rise at public luncheons and
"bow down before the solemn and naïveté and lonely figure of Mussolini."

They do not look into the actual conditions of Italian life, and inquire, among many other things, why it is that the Government is having millions advanced to itself by the treasury with the distinct statement that, by virtue of a royal decree of June 1st, I shall not account for these millions.

Finally, these Americans never take the time to inquire why it is that the Vatican is openly turning its guns upon Fascism, or to ascertain just what is the condition of the agricultural workers under the Mussolini regime. The indisputable facts as to the murder of Matoetti they do not care to know, or they pass the incident over as a trifling pericardillo of friends of the great and lonely and majestic figure.

FRENCH ECONOMIC UNION ASSAULTS DEBT SETTLEMENT

Adopts Resolution Demanding That Mellon-Berenger Plan Be Amended on Equitable Basis.

DEPUTY CRITICISES AMERICAN TARIFF

Declares Rates Are Barrier to French, Who Desire to Get Money From Exports
to U. S.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Criticism of the American tariff and the demand that the French parliament amend the American debt settlement agreement were voiced at a convention of the "union of economic interests," the most powerful commercial and industrial body in France, last night.

A resolution characterizing both the Washington and London accords as unacceptable in their present form was adopted, its main point being the demand that parliament
amend the Mellon-Berenger agreement especially "so as to make a settlement possible and equitable."

Criticizes French Favor.
Before adoption of the resolution, Deputy Louis Dubois, former president of the reparations commission, made a long address against ratification of the debt agreement, which probably will not come up in the French chamber until early next year.

Dubois criticized French Ambassador Berenger for not having attempted to obtain a reduction in the total amount of the claims of the United States on France, instead of contenting himself merely with scaling down the inter-rates. He also criticized Berenger as having undue optimism concerning the capacity of France to pay from 1930 on.

The French deputy maintained that the total payments for the 62 years really worked out at $6,548,- 000,000, instead of the lower sums previously announced in France. He declared the present tariff rates in the United States were insurmountable barriers to the French who were desirous of getting the necessary money to pay their debts by the sale of merchandise in America.

"Why Not Pay in Kind?"
"We received the substance of warlike advances in the shape of merchandise from the United States," exclaimed Dubois in the midst of applause, "why cannot we repay in kind?"

Dubois then argued that the United States treasury already has received a large portion of advances to France by war profit taxes. He evoked great applause when he read extracts from the Congressional record of speeches made by Congressmen Wainwright, Hill, Crisp, and Gibson the tenor of which was that the Mellon-Berenger accord was not lenient enough to France.

Mussolini may achieve in the six months or six years that may yet be his, but what is the price for this horrible strangling of liberty, this destruction of the principle of democratic government,
this brutal enslaving of a people
for the exaltation of a megalomaniac who, in his speeches at least,
is his brother to the ex-Kaiser.

At the moment Italy is anxious to what he may do to improve international relations. He nearly wrecked the League of Nations three years ago by his assault on Corfu. His attacks upon Germany in regard to the agitation over the Tyrrol and upon France for granting the right of political refuge to Italian refugees are examples of the way he keeps the chanceleries of Europe in turmoil. No one knows where he will break out next, or how. He is as adept in rattling the saber in its scabbard as was the Kaiser. Fascist leaders talk recklessly of war with Turkey or even with France.

The danger is that in order to save himself he may resort to arms like other pincbeck Napoleons. Meanwhile, he is the enemy of Europe and all Europe is paying for him in increased nervous tension and uncertainty lest it pay also a fearful price in blood. Why has France placed three more divisions on the Italian boundary?

Whenever Mussolini falls, Italy will be lucky if it does not find its finances completely wrecked
and its future heavily mortgaged.
It will have laboriously to reconstruct the whole financial and economic structure of the state and the institutions of democracy which Mussolini has pulled down.
It will

Symphony Musicians' Problem.

THE music lovers of the Billonarea have reason to be proud of two St. Louis institutions, namely the Municipal Opera and the Symphony Orchestra. The Symphony season which is just getting under way marks another milestone in the successful career of that unselfish and devoted master of the Art of Music, Mr. Rudolph Ganz, to whom all St. Louisans wish many happy returns.

The writer of this letter had a talk recently with one of the members of the Symphony Orchestra whom he met by chance and the musician appeared to suffer some chagrin on account of the apparent difficulty which he faced in trying to find some means of subsisting on his talents during the 32 weeks of the year when the Symphony is not in session. It appears that it is difficult if not impossible for a Symphony artist to get a contract with any of the theaters because he must furnish a substitute for his place when the Symphony calls upon him to serve. Moreover, there seems to be prejudice against the dual service.

As I believe that the artist should live by his art for the entire year, I suggest that part of the difficulty might be removed by some arrangement which would enable members of the Symphony Orchestra to be assured of an engagement with the Municipal Opera, a dual contract, for instance. Then perhaps the Symphony season might be prolonged for about seven or eight weeks and in this manner the best of our local musicians would be more content.

I believe that Mr. Ganz is the man of the hour to solve this problem.

Too Many Boulevard Stops.

ONE of the Aldermen has introduced a bill to make Hawthorne and Longfellow avenues boulevards and to compel the public to stop when they cross these boulevards on both Grand boulevard and Compton avenues. Now, Compton avenue is a semiboulevard today and the city has spent a lot of money in inducing the public to use Compton avenue going from and to the South Side.

When you start into South St. Louis the first thing you hit is the stop-and-go sign at Lafayette, then two blocks south you have Russell avenue, which is a boulevard, then if this bill went through for the residents of Hawthorne and Longfellow and which number something like 40 or 50 families, you would have two more stops one after the other—that is, Russell, Longfellow, Hawthorne and then automobile traffic is almost compelled to stop at the corner of Shenandoah on account of the congestion there.

Why should Hawthorne and Longfellow be protected while thousands of people who ride the street cars and use Compton avenue as a thoroughfare are compelled to stop every block? Why should these two restricted districts be given preferred treatment over the rest of the citizens of St. Louis?

What have the Aldermen of the South Side, and what has the Alderman who introduced this bill got to say about this?

A SOUTH SIDER.

Conscription of Wealth.

SEE that the newspapers (notably Republican) are attempting to make capital of President Coolidge's statement that wealth should be conscripted as well as flesh and blood, in times of war. A very naive statement of simple fact, indeed! Who does not know it?

In time of danger or war, in fact, not only should wealth be conscripted as well as blood, but it should be conscripted sooner than blood. There is many a war which could have been averted by the utilization of conscripted wealth instead of that of blood, and the blood could have been saved instead of the money. If any dare challenge this fact, let us remind them that our own Civil War could have been averted by paying the owners of slaves a just remuneration for their money tied up in such admittedly dubious property. England paid for her colonies' slaves and averted civil war. The fact remains that people ruled by the iron hand of military necessity submitted to the blood conscription and also in the end paid out 10 times as much money as a monetary arbitration would have cost. The only other difference was that capitalism profited greatly with the conscription of blood. The time is coming when our leaders (1) who get up and make trite, naive statements of facts will have the answer hurled back in their faces, that we know these facts well and do not wish to hear them at all. What we want is something done about it and done pronto.

LOUIS T. CULLING, 300 West Sixth Street, Topeka, Kas.

THE AWAKENING FARMER.

Farm relief assumes a refreshingly businesslike aspect when cotton growers of the South and grain growers of the North get together as they have done at the conference in St. Louis this week. It has been a handicap to farming that hitherto farmers have been Democrats or Republicans first and farmers afterward, when, as a matter of fact, they have all, as farmers, been steadily declining in fortune. The St. Louis conference seeks to discover what can be done.

Obviously, the tariff is not for farmers. They are all beginning to see that. It is not, however, certain that revision of the tariff would restore farming to an economic parity with all industry. The farmers themselves are not so ingenious as that. There is a grave difference of opinion among them as to how far their ills can be remedied by tariff revision. It is the tariff that keeps up what the farmer buys; it is not the tariff that keeps down what he sells.

Opening the conference, Chairman Hirth, editor of a farm publication, said: "We love agriculture better than any political party." If that is so, then a great point has been gained. Unfortunately, it is not so. Nobody ever said seriously that Mr. La Follette was not a sincere friend of the farmers and did not know their necessities better than any other spokesman they have had. Yet farmers have always been Republicans or Democrats. When Mr. La Follette was a candidate for President, farmers voted for Mr. Coolidge or for Mr. Davis. There has never been the slightest disposition among them to serve their own interest first, and they have therefore suffered the consequences which are bound to follow serving some other interest first. Farmers have been the dupes of both the Republican and Democratic parties, the one almost as meaningless to them as the other. It is high time, for their own good, that they achieved the virtue of political independence. No great element of the population can hold its own against the whole except it is capable of political independence.

It is unfortunate that our American custom of granting subsidies to favorite industries has determined the farmers to have a subsidy, too. There is no lasting hope for farming in things so artificial as that, nor is it likely the farmers would ask it for immediate purposes except for the bad examples we have set. They want a special session of Congress and immediate relief for a situation that has been developing for 50 years. There is no better reason for giving it to them than that we are giving it to others. Even so, it is hard to see how Congress can refuse it. The refusal of Mr. Coolidge, as the arch priest of special subsidies for manufacturing, to consent to a subsidy for the farmers reveals him as more the President of an interest than as President of the whole country.

The St. Louis conference is an encouraging sign. It shows two things quite plainly: (1) That farmers are awakening to their common interest as well as their common plight; (2) that they are disposed to think their own way out of their troubles. If, as Senator Brookhart says, 1,000,000 farmers have lost their farms or their property in the last six years, it is time the grain grower and the cotton grower, the stock raiser and the fruit grower, sat down together. It is going to take thought and patience to find a solution for such a problem as that, and only the farmers' own brains are going to serve them.

REVERSING AN OLD GUARD MOTTO.

The Old Guard of the Senate is chastened. It no longer shakes its gory locks at those erring brothers who, still retaining the name of Republican, have wandered far from the faith. Nye, Norris, Frazier, Brookhart, the younger La Follette will never again feel the party lash on their heretical backs. They are to be welcomed into the fold as full-blown Republicans. No more forfeiture of committee standing. The day of discipline has passed. The day of reconciliation, fellowship, brotherhood has dawned. The door is open even to Shipstead of Minnesota, the Farmer-Laborite.

They are practical men, those members of the Old Guard. If they are to organize the Senate, retain the chairmanships and all the other perquisites and powers, they must have the votes of every one of those erstwhile recusants, including that of Shipstead. Under the circumstances, party regularity, which only a little while ago was the price of recognition, has been chucked overboard. It is of no consequence now what vagaries a Senator may conceal beneath his toga or broadcast to the world. If only he carry the name of Republican he can sit at the table and receive the helping due him under the dispensation of seniority.

It was the proud boast of Napoleon tradition that "the Old Guard dies but never surrenders." It is the political philosophy of the Republican senatorial cabal that the Old Guard surrenders but never dies.

Gov. Small may be described as belligerently neutral.

RUMANIA AND THE JEWS.

During her reception in Chicago, on Monday, Queen Marie of Rumania visited the synagogue of the First Rumanian Congregation of Jews, outside of which were a number of persons, either Jews formerly from Rumania or others interested in Rumanian Jews, who distributed handbills attacking the Rumanian Government. Six of these persons, three women and three men, were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and placed under bail of $50 each.

It is to be regretted that the Chicago police were quite so zealous and not more fully informed of the rights of those who were arrested. From the foundation of this Government the United States has consistently, until very recently, disclaimed all right to interfere in the matter of private criticism of foreign governments by fugitives and others who have found asylum here. If a foreign sovereign is libeled in the United States our courts are open for redress, as in the case of any person, however exalted or humble.

The distribution of handbills derogatory to a visiting sovereign, or the system of government maintained by such sovereign, and unobjectionable by common law tests, while regrettable, perhaps, as an untoward incident, is no cause for police interference. And particularly is this true in the case of Rumania when Jews are the complainants.

It is well to recall that by the Rumanian Constitution of 1866, "only Christians can become citizens of Rumania"; and that the discrimination against the Jews was so severe that the European Powers recognized the independence of Rumania in the treaty of Berlin only on condition that Rumania grant "absolute freedom of worship to all persons in Rumania," and that no religious beliefs should be a bar to the enjoyment of any political rights."

Rumania has never fulfilled her obligations under this treaty provision. The Jews have had a real, not a fancied, grievance. The action of the Chicago police reflects little credit upon the intelligence of the administration that controls it.

THE MELON HAS BEEN CUT.

Judge Ittner has at last cut the juicy legal melon growing out of the American General Indemnity Co. receivership case. Under his ruling, four attorneys get $30,000. These four attorneys were appointed by Judge Frey. One, Harvey G. Readey, is a stenographer in his court. Another, Karol A. Korngold, is Judge Frey's nephew. The original award of attorneys' fees of $30,000 in this case was made last May. At that time, Ben C. Hyde, State Insurance Commissioner, objected strongly, saying that $5000 would have been a reasonable fee for all four attorneys. Judge Ittner set the award in abeyance and held another hearing on it, after which he took the matter under advisement.

Wholly aside from the wide discrepancy in the opinions of Judge Ittner and Hyde as to what legal services were worth in the case of this defunct company, the incident smacks of unpleasant nepotism. Judge Frey's defense that he did not set the fees and that Readey and Korngold were appointed at the request of one of the attorneys of the defunct company does not free him of responsibility. After all, he did give the appointments to a nephew and an officer of his court, and that is a procedure, to say the least, which lowers his official dignity. That, in the opinion of a State official conversant with the facts, they were grossly overpaid emphasizes the mistake.

Americanism: Waving at the Queen with one hand and holding a hot dog in the other.

IDEALS FOR THE NEXT WAR.

Senator Reed of Missouri consigned to utter limbo Mr. Coolidge's suggestion that in the next war wealth and men be conscripted alike. The Senator does not believe that any such thing is practicable, and we confess that we cannot see how it possibly could or ought to be done. We had conscription of wealth to some degree in the last war. In the United States the nation took the railroads over and operated them as part of the war machine. It fixed the price of wheat. Presumably what Mr. Coolidge proposes is that no one be permitted to make money out of war.

Would it be too much of a descent from such high-mindedness to suggest that we try to prevent the next war instead of making ideals for it? When it comes it will be precisely as the last war was. Each nation will be governed by its own necessity. The whole body of international law became null and void in the World War. There was not the least law on the sea. Might became the only right. So, too, will the next war be like that. All wars have been like that. No matter how civilized, all nations are governed in war by but one law—the law of self-preservation.

Profiteering is one of the evils of war. It is likely irradicable, although it might be restricted by taxation. Anything else postulates a form of communism in war time, which could no more work than all such panaceas work during peace. It is impossible to make aggressive war good. It is essentially bad. The business of the world is to get rid of it—not to purify and somehow ennoble it. It is the worst of all human phenomena, and is always followed by remorse.

Mr. Coolidge is only expressing this remorse. He is not a realist, as Senator Reed is, and therefore exposes himself to the Senator's scorn.

All rumors that Gov. Baker hasn't a heart are disproved. He has just taken Alroy S. Phillips out of the job as Federal prohibition chief in St. Louis, which nobody wants, and made him chairman of a commission created by the compensation act, for which there was a scramble.

FRIES AND FLURY.

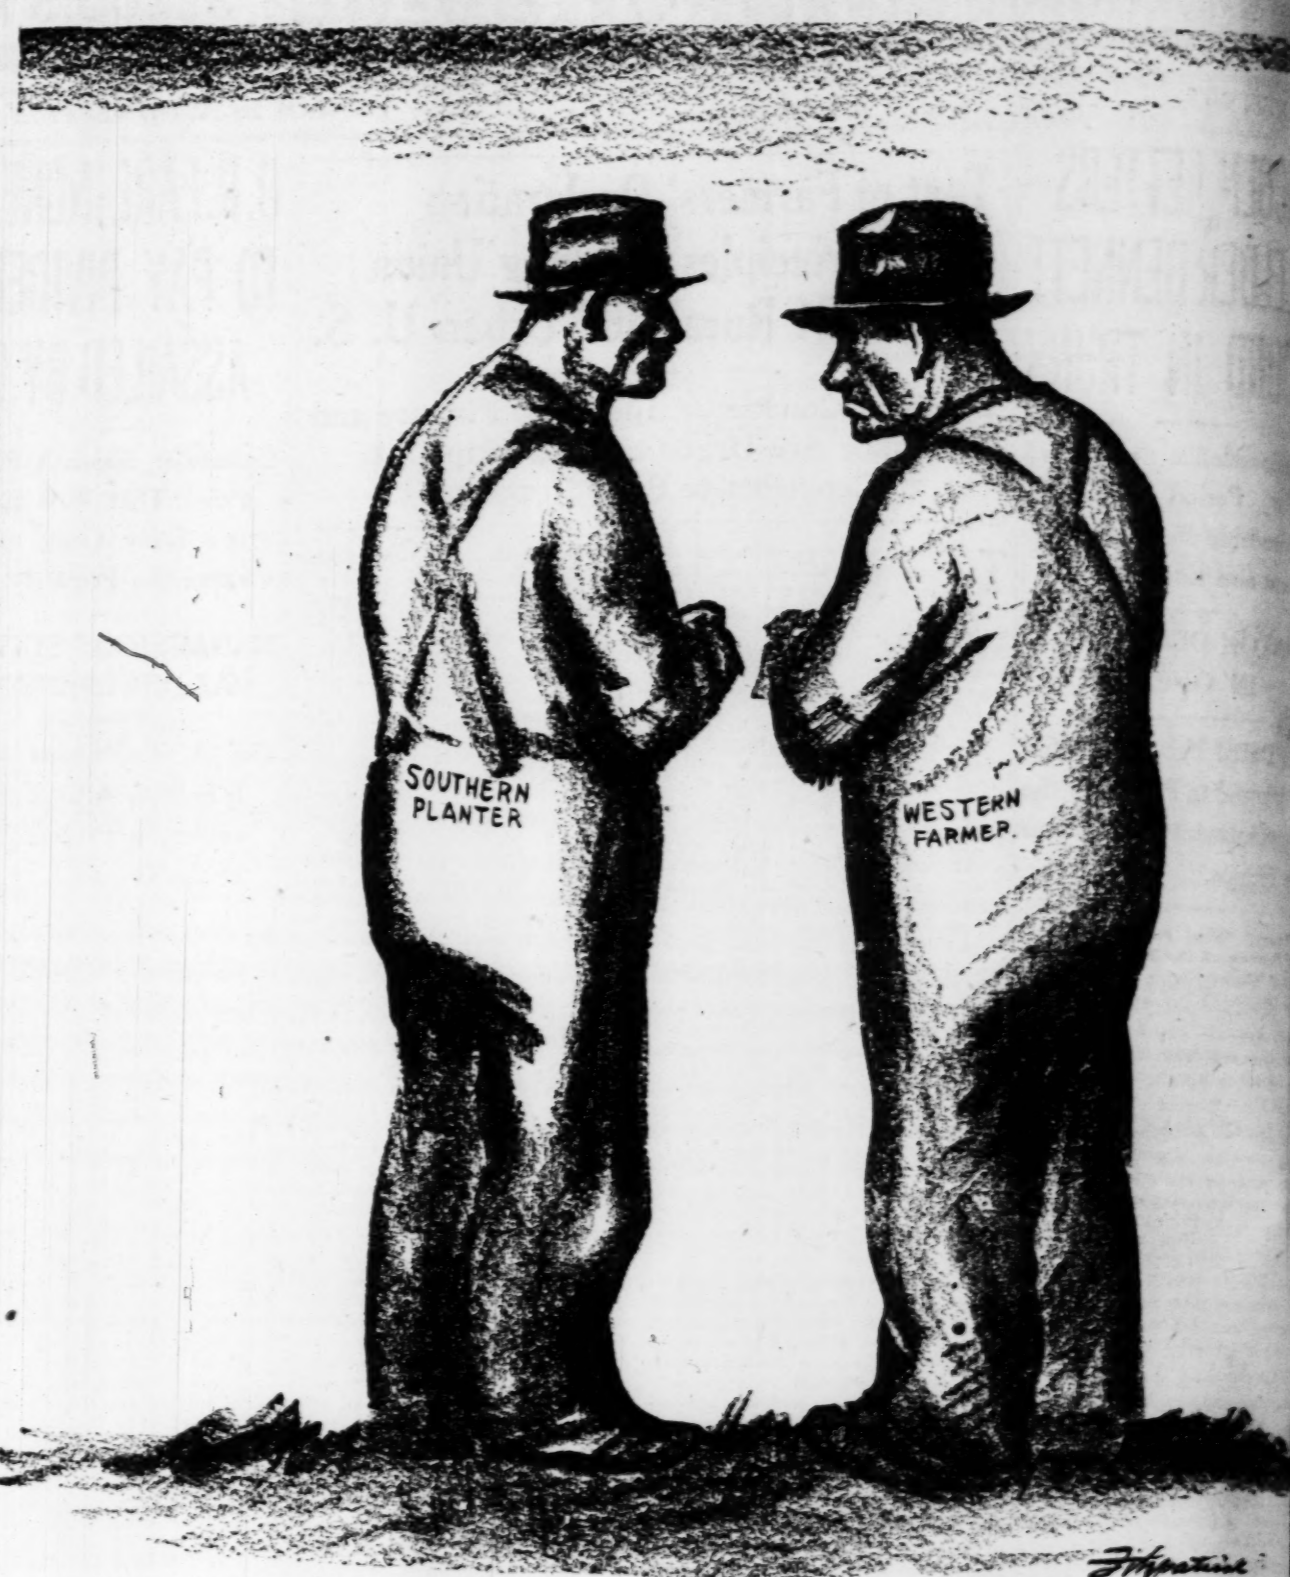

Gen. Fries does not think Henry Flury should be allowed to teach school in Washington, D. C., because Henry Flury has ideas with which Gen. Fries disagrees. Therefore, Gen. Fries, in the name of the American Legion and as a taxpayer, is trying to get the School Board to fire Henry Flury. So far, the School Board has refused to do so, despite the pressure brought to bear by Fries. We hope the School Board maintains its stand against the unreasonable request of an intellectual bigot.

The cause of the disturbance is a definition of socialism written by Flury in a magazine contest, for which he received a $5 prize. This definition describes our civilization as cruel and ugly, refers to workmen as slaves and asks why this is so, considering all the wonderfully productive machinery and the improved methods of organization which obtain in this age. This is a pessimistic view of things, to be sure, but is it reprehensible to take this view? Gen. Fries thinks it is. He believes that no school teacher should think thoughts like this, even if he does not impart them to his classes. Gen. Fries thinks Flury's views are un-American. According to Gen. Fries, it is un-American to be discontented with things as they are, to express dissatisfaction with the present state of civilization.

Even if Flury expressed his ideas to his classes, we do not believe it would do any harm. On the contrary, it would stimulate young minds to think, and perhaps to search for means to improve the condition of mankind. It is the questioning, restless, discontented mind which stirs progress. Nearly all of the great men of the world have been discontented and dissatisfied men. That is what spurred them on. Gen. Fries, however, sees no need for such unorthodox thoughts as Flury has because he has the idea that this civilization has achieved something like perfection.

Fries is a thoughtless "booster." Flury is a thinker. Fries will do well to look after his job as head of the poison gas department of the army and let Flury alone.

Election returns from Philadelphia, where, in many precincts, Vane got every vote, recall an anecdote of the primary race in St. Louis between Stone and Folk. When the returns from one downtown precinct came in they showed 300 for Stone and none for Folk. The Democratic boss of the section shook his head and exclaimed: "Why didn't you give Folk a couple of votes? They will suspect collusion."

ANOTHER DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

Sir: First, let me assure you that I have not sworn any oaths to dispute everything you write. Neither get the idea that I am seeking to appropriate any of the laurels laid rest upon the erudite pate of that most rabid of controversialists—H. L. Mencken. I am quite sure that you would not like your readers to be the pean-brained sort who would swallow even your weighty conclusions as they would oysters—without even chewing them. Amiable relations now being restored, let the dispute rage on. So you decry the inconsiderateness of contractors who conceal from the gaze of the indolent, by a high wooden fence, the spectacle of a building in embryo. You maintain that one of our most cherished rights has been encroached upon—the inalienable, irrefutable privilege of gazing at the processes involved in constructing a building. You hint that a cat may look at a queen, so why should a measly excavation be hidden from the eyes of man? You convince me not! Though I have nothing in common with the "thou-shalt-nots" (who unquestionably are behind this idea of fencing in building activities), I cast my lot with them in this particular case. Priftering away time always was one of my pet abominations. In my estimation, killing human beings (whose drug store value has been appraised at $8 cents for ordinary individuals and $1.87 for Wagnerian sopranos) is not so great a crime as killing time, which is the most precious thing there is. Mere sophistry? Perhaps, but you forget that I am on the side of the "thou-shalt-nots," and when have they employed reason in their arguments? In days gone by, when manual labor flourished, the habitual idler often experienced a tinge of remorse upon beholding a laborer digging a ditch. He (the idler) felt that he, too, should be engaged in some useful occupation. The age of machinery has changed all that. Nowadays, if one's particular hobby happens to be idling, one can spend an entire morning watching a steam shovel in action without that feeling of dereliction. One feels that a steam shovel can do the work so efficiently and rapidly that it would be the height of asininity to grab a spade and pitch in. So, in a sense, the steam shovel contributes to delinquency. And yet you let out a roar of protest against any measure resorted to in removing the causes of it. But, of course, being, no doubt, of the gaping gentry yourself, you will not see the logic in my argument for even higher fences. With that characteristic obstinacy which prompts you to conduct your campaign to do away with the campaign poster nuisance in the face of the most disheartening indifference, you would be just the person doggedly to plant yourself before a fenced-off area where excavating was going on, and wait until the first story of the building heaped out above the enclosure, after which you could witness the remainder of the operation until the tenants moved in.

HURRAH FOR MARIE!

We like the Prince of Wales. Edward Albert is one member of royalty close to our democratic (both capital and lower case "d") heart. But there is room also for Marie of Rumania. In the course of a conversation in Chicago, she said: "I am not criticizing. I do not know enough about America to criticize." Hurrah! Let us cheer until the Ozarks reverberate with the echoes of our gladsome noise. Let us rend the ambient air with cheerful yelling until such politicians as have their ears to the ground are rendered deaf. We felt sure that so gracious, kindly, vital and energetic a personality as Marie would show somewhere in her visit that distinctive, unmistakable touch of individuality which renders the memory of certain people vivid and enables us to feel their presence. We mourned when Marie faltered with "Wonderful, wonderful, wonderful" at Niagara Falls. But, gracious first lady of Rumania, you have redeemed yourself and our faith in your inherent royalty is restored. You do not know enough about America to criticize. You, of the race of British lecturers, who know more about America as the ship steams up the Narrows than we have learned in a lifetime, you, Marie, do not know enough about America to criticize. If no other present is sufficient, let us give Marie the Statue of Liberty; it is no longer needed in this country.

Field Marshal Ludendorff also denies that America won the war. It would be rather strange that the winner of a war should have to pay for it.

And Death comes stealing.

And I shall welcome

"DOUBLE JEOPARDY."

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.
THERE is a provision of the Constitution which states that no person shall twice put in jeopardy of life or limb the same offense. This is known as "constitutional rule against double jeopardy." In the opinion of the United States Supreme Court, this does not apply to State prohibition law as has been such violations are not capital crimes, and the courts rule that both the State and the federal authorities may prosecute for the same offense in such cases as these. This may be good law but it is poor sense. If it is honored in the breach, it will, in fact, double punishment for the same offense. To these, and the selections in English which followed, Mr. McCormack added charm above the mere vocal interpretation by his splendid enunciation, which carried the texts to the farthest reaches of the balcony. "The Next Market Day" was a quaint Irish liltation given in a heart-winning brogue—led up to the climax of his third group, "Kathleen Maureen." To the instant applause which followed the songs of Ireland he replied with "Open the Door," a humorous ditty, "Believe Me If All These Endearing Young Charms," and finally with the inevitable "Mother Machree," which he prefaced by adding to an enthusiastic white-haired lady in the front row and saying "For you."

ONE-MAN MAJORITY.

From the Indianapolis News.
W HATEVER else may be said of Benito Mussolini, nobody can deny that he is not industrious. He is busy to do something else, and is engaged over the labors that a Premier would hardly assign to a colleague. And the more he becomes the more his popularity increases with everybody, including his enemies. Not only is he in personal control of newly created force to protect against all insular attacks and to force, but he holds seven of the 11 folios in the Italian Cabinet, thus insuring himself as a one-man majority.

ARMISTICE DAY.

From the Worcester Telegram.
COL JOHN T. AXTON, chief of the United States Army, is against turning Armistice Day into a Memorial day. He says Nov. 11 should be a day of joy and happiness. He says that it is actually happening in Italy, where the American still prefers the Memorial type of government, he is in a daily dialog to our American political principles.

4000 HEAR M'CORMACK SING AT COLISEUM

Irish Tenor Not in Best Voice for Concert Which Brings Out Many Followers.

WITH the mixed emotions of a man who visits a friend and finds him indisposed, and with a certain gratification that his condition is not worse, yet with a feeling of sympathetic distress because he is not his old self, an audience of almost 4000 followers heard their beloved tenor in concert at the Coliseum.

Whether it was that a wearing week of concerts had imposed too great a strain upon him, or that he was severely indisposed, or that (perhaps the thought) his matchless voice is feeling the relentless tread of the years, the McCormack who sang here last night was not the McCormack of the golden years, the minstrel of the golden voice.

True it was that he enchanted his hearers by the very sweetness of his intonation with which he gave the varied selections of his program, particularly his Irish airs. True, too, that his voice still showed that smooth legato, that faultless control which has always been the hallmark of his art.

But those golden ringing upper notes, which once struck straight at the hearts, and the spines, of his hearers—where were they? That resonant sweetness of the voice, which had become of the staff his audience had leaned forward with expectancy, to be the shrilled. It sat back in its seats again with a throxy, almost husky note, ringing in its ears.

McCormack sang under most unfavorable conditions. The Coliseum was chilly, discouraging to the audience, which kept on its wraps for the most part, and doubly discouraged to the singer. Also, he was at the end of a grueling week of concert singing, with the inevitable strain of added numbers, which his audiences demand of him. Perhaps it was with reason that the golden sheen of his voice showed a thread here and there. He opened his program with "Gloite al canto meo" from Perle's grand opera, "Euridice," followed the simple melody with taste and with faultless enunciation of the Italian text. "Let us but rest," from the Bach cantata of the same name, closed his first group.

The second group brought still greater variety to the program. There was the song, "I tempi assai lontani," by the modern Italian composer, Respighi, and two delightful adaptations of old Chinese airs by Bantock. A Dream of written pieces with tinkling, almost pianissimo accompaniments in the Oriental style, but with more Oriental airs.

This group, in which Mr. McCormack appeared to be the best of the evening, ended with "The Wines of Song" and "Just Today," a childlike prayer, which the recitalist interpreted with entrancing sweetness.

To these, and the selections in English which followed, Mr. McCormack added charm above the mere vocal interpretation by his splendid enunciation, which carried the texts to the farthest reaches of the balcony. "The Next Market Day" was a quaint Irish liltation given in a heart-winning brogue—led up to the climax of his third group, "Kathleen Maureen."

To the instant applause which followed the songs of Ireland he replied with "Open the Door," a humorous ditty, "Believe Me If All These Endearing Young Charms," and finally with the inevitable "Mother Machree," which he prefaced by adding to an enthusiastic white-haired lady in the front row and saying "For you."

ed, disillusioned, and with much less courage for undertaking the restoration of the State. At least the thousands of imprisoned political victims of the great and lonely and majestic figure will be released. The miseries and sufferings caused by the tyrant can never be undone or compensated for. But there can be a return to normal and civilized government even though it be less efficient on the surface.

Dictator Can't Last Forever.

The alternative of such a people living for generations under the domination of a dictator and his successors is simply unthinkable. The world has its cycles of reaction, but it has also its cycles of revolution and evolution. For Americans Mussolini is serving an extraordinarily useful purpose. You can measure a man's devotion to the democratic ideal and his belief in America's principles of government by the degree that he takes toward Mussolini. If with some knowledge of what is actually happening in Italy, the American still prefers the Mussolini type of government, he is in a daily dialog to our American political principles.

Curiously enough, the adherents of Mussolini include primarily those who did lose somebody in the war.

HORSE SHOW DEFICIT OF $12,000 THIS YEAR

Receipts Were $33,000 and Cost, Including $20,000 in Prizes, Was $45,000.

If it hadn't been for Queen Marie's visit to the Coliseum last Friday the St. Louis Horse Show Association would be much worse off than it is now, but at that there is a deficit of $12,000 on this year's show.

Friends of the horse show are being asked this week in letters from Phil S. Medart, secretary-treasurer of the association, to rally around with relief checks. Medart explains that the association has about $7000 in the treasury left from an original capital stock of $25,000. It will need $6000 or $7000 additional to meet current obligations.

This year's show, the most pretentious staged in St. Louis, cost $45,000, Medart announced, and receipts were $33,000. The largest item of expense was the prize list of more than $20,000 distributed among winning exhibitors. The show ring cost more than had been expected, because of the swimming pool in the Coliseum floor and other expenses ranged above estimates.

The show had run behind to an alarming degree early last week, but the management invited Queen Marie to drop in Friday night, charged $1.10 for the hitherto free seats in the gallery, $3.80 for first balcony seats and collected more than a third of the whole week's receipts that evening.

Each year the show has been held there have been deficits, despite increasing quality of the exhibitions. With this year's loss the entire capital stock of the show may be wiped out.

TEXT OF FARMERS' DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES

the United States have a right to expect them now to organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit, regardless of party, to express and work for the economic interests of agriculture in the coming session of Congress.

Farm and Foreign Debts: Since the close of the World War many of the leading statesmen of Europe have insisted in all seriousness that unless the United States consents to the cancellation of the debts of our erstwhile allies, the economic security of Europe will be seriously menaced, and if they are correct in this view that the required repayment of honorable debts of some $11,000,000,000 in a half century or more of time will seriously menace the future economic security of Europe, then what of the future economic security of the American farmer, who is at this hour staggering under a farm debt of more than $12,000,000,000?

Interest of Consumers: We believe that stability in agricultural price levels and adequate farm production, such as in the long run will only be assured by fair prices, are important in the interest of consumers as well as producers. Development of nationwide co-operative marketing associations will follow the adoption of an effective plan to stabilize agriculture, provided such a plan does not impose upon members alone of such co-operative associations the entire expense of managing crop surpluses. These agencies will lower marketing costs between the farmer and consumer. The consumer will receive much of the saving in all cases and most of it in some.

The Tariff: We favor the removal or modification of unfair and excessive tariff duties that now afford shelter for price-fixing monopolies. It is idle to refer to manufactured articles on the free list as benefiting the farmer when materials entering into their manufacture are highly and extensively protected. We therefore urge immediate reduction on such basic materials as aluminum, steel and chemicals.

We recommend to farmers' organizations that they make a special study of the effects on agriculture of industrial tariffs and also of the effects of our change from debtor to creditor nation, and especially of its effects on the accumulation of our agricultural surpluses.

Our "tariff primers" have taught us the farmer would get his reward through the demand created by the high purchasing power of prosperous industrial classes. We demand that the farmer be given the opportunity to promote the national prosperity by his own increased purchasing power through increased prices, as well as his increased producing power.

Appreciation of Support: We commend those farm-minded members of Congress, regardless of party, who worked and voted for effective agricultural legislation and pledge them our active support. The welfare of agriculture is more important than the welfare of individuals of any political party.

Farm Leadership: We appeal to the farmers of the United States to ascertain the attitude and performance of their farm organization leaders in respect to this national farm policy, and to hold such leaders strictly accountable to their responsibility of interpreting fairly the interest and opinion of their members.

Meeting of Congressional Committees: In order that such farm legislation as is to be considered in the short session of the Sixty-ninth Congress may be in the hands of Congress and the public at the opening of the session, we respectfully recommend that the Agricultural Committees of the Senate and House meet at once for its study and preparation.

Congressional Investigation: We distrust those inter-relations which appear to give to industrial advisors, who are not without self-interest as dealers or speculators in farm products, the deciding voice not only in influencing the enactment of agricultural legislation, but in determining the manner of administration of such laws after enactment.

We believe that a public understanding of such relations would be valuable, and that a thorough investigation would be unfair to no interest or individual; therefore we commend the purpose of Senate resolution 249 by Senator Wheeler, and urge that it be broadened to include an investigation of the various forces which have been moving towards the subordination of agriculture. We suggest the following as additional lines for such investigation:

A. The activities of the Department of Commerce to dominate and encroach upon the functions of the Department of Agriculture, including interference in the personnel of such department.

B. The source of the opposition towards effective agricultural legislation described by Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, in his speech to the Senate June 14, 1925.

C. The speculative manipulation of the grain market, and the circumstances surrounding the restoration of gambling in "puts and calls" by the Chicago Board of Trade.

Confidence in farm relief leaders: We express our appreciation of the men who initiated and have for three years carried forward the movement for farm relief legislation and have labored so zealously and effectively to arouse Congress and the country to a realization of the true condition of American agriculture and of the imperative need for remedial legislation.

No Sectionalism or Partisanship: In conclusion we express our gratification over the spirit of unity and harmony which has been dominant in this conference. It is not only gratifying but highly significant that representative farmers and farm organization leaders from the great agricultural regions of the Midwest, West and South have come to know through the discussions and associations of all these sections faced by the same problem and that the only hope for relief lies in united effort. It is worthy of formal recognition and record in this statement that no differences of opinion or interest respecting agricultural conditions, problems or remedies has appeared among the farmers or farm organizations participating in this conference. This should be heartening to farmers everywhere and inspire renewed hope that the days of division and weakness are to be succeeded by unity and strength.

which will regain for agriculture its just share in our national prosperity and its rightful place of equality with other great industries in our national economy.

The proceedings of this conference furnish eloquent proof to the farmers of the United States that no sectionalism, no rivalry in planning for future operation.

DR. W. S. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83
Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach. They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, fever-

VOICE BENEFITS TO BE DERIVED FROM OLIVE PARKWAY

Proponents of Neutral Strip Speak at Meeting of 250 Before Meeting of Aldermen Committee.

URGENT OVERTHROW OF MINORITY OBJECTORS

Property and Safety Council Representatives Say Rights of General Public Must Prevail.

Numbers and arguments were rallied last night to support the proposal to place street cars in widened Olive street, in a neutral strip, or reserved parkway, in the center of the street, at a public hearing before the Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen in the board's chamber in the city hall.

Most of 250 persons present indicated by applause that they favored the proposal and speakers for them emphasized:

1. That greater safety in traffic will be accomplished by the division of street cars and automobiles into three lanes, one for eastbound automobiles, one for westbound automobiles and one for street cars, east and west.

2. That the running time of street cars between Grand and Twelfth boulevards in Olive street would be reduced between four and five minutes.

3. That the opposition of a relatively few owners of property abutting Olive street should not transcend the desires of other owners in the tax district, and that "the most good for the largest number" must prevail.

75 Per Cent on Street Cars.

In this latter connection it was said that 75 per cent of the traffic in Olive street was street car passenger traffic and the remaining automobiles. The receiver for the United Railways declared that the number of street car riders on Olive street was 30,000 daily, who would be saved from four to five minutes in the morning and the same time in the evening in their journeys to and from work.

Arguments Favor Neutral Strip.

The path of the arguments presented follows:

Joseph T. Davis, speaking for the Safety Council, who by unanimous action of 32 members of its Executive Committee, is on record for the proposal: "Pedestrians will be prevented from crossing the street, except at intersections, shutting off jay-walking, which is one of the main traffic hazards in the city. Automobiles will be prevented from getting onto the wrong side of the street or from getting in front of street cars, another chief traffic hazard. Persons boarding and alighting from street cars will be provided with a safety zone. Traffic engineers everywhere and traffic conferences have unanimously approved the general principle of segregation of traffic wherever possible."

Viewpoint of Retailers.

C. E. Williams, representing the Associated Retailers: "No one of the 65 stores comprising the Associated Retailers would voluntarily locate upon a 100-foot street. (This in answer to the statement of Olive street property owners that their property would be damaged $200 a front foot by the proposal for a neutral strip.) There is only one chief consideration here. Are the interests of the public at large, the 75 per cent who ride street cars, to be sacrificed to the personal, self-centered desires of a few property owners? Each of the 65 retailers possesses a part of the cost of widening Olive street, and all favor the neutral strip as a contribution to solution of the problem of facilitating the movement of people to and from the downtown."

"A Contribution to Safety."

Wilbur B. Jones, speaking for owners of Pierce Building, Railway Exchange Building, the estate of W. B. Thompson, owning property abutting on the widened street and in the tax zone: "We declare our support for the parkway as a contribution to safety and the general public good."

Edward W. Foristel, speaking for "the 2193 subscribers to the Trades Union Promotional League Bulletin": "We oppose the United Railways in most things. We stand with them in this. It will tend to save the lives of men, women and especially little children, and we place the life of one little child above all other considerations in this matter."

Effects of Safety Islands.

Oliver T. Remmers, past president of the Safety Council: "We cannot tolerate the shouting of a minority in this matter. The abolition of the Board of Aldermen is

DENIES ASIATIC DEFENSE LEAGUE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 17.—The official Russo-Turk communique from Odessa regarding the conference between the Turkish and Russian Foreign Ministers confirms the belief here that the interview was not concerned with the formation of an Asiatic league against the Occident. A competent authority points out that Turkey's disadvantages in such a league would be apparent, as the aid of countries such as Persia, Afghanistan and Russia would not compensate for the loss of European confidence.

While the official organs deny the likelihood of an Asiatic league, the semi-official papers maintain the necessity of a defensive Oriental union, not antagonistic to the Occident but co-operating to introduce Western civilization into the East.

CHICAGO PSYCHIATRIST GETS BOMB AT CITY HALL OFFICE

Three Sticks of Dynamite With Caps, Tossed About Carelessly, Fail to Explode.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—An attempt to kill Dr. William Hickson, Municipal Court psychiatrist, failed when a bomb, mailed to him, failed to explode when he opened the candy box in which it was contained in his office in city hall. The bomb, consisting of three sticks of dynamite equipped with percussion caps, was placed under a layer of chocolates.

The package was delivered Monday night at the offices of Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal Court, and had been tossed carelessly about an ante-room in his office during the day. Police said the dynamite did not explode because it was bound tightly in tape to prevent any slight jar from exploding the caps. Mrs. Hickson, also a mental expert, was with her husband when the box, which also contained an abusive letter, was opened. The letter was unsigned. Postal authorities and police are looking for a man committed to the psychiatric hospital some time ago by Dr. Hickson.

Not that a few Olive street owners, but to society in general.
"I tell you that if Olive street is widened to 100 feet and street cars are not operated in a neutral strip it will be necessary to create islands of safety in the middle of the street for the benefit of pedestrians who will board the cars. These islands will be effectively divide the street as will the neutral strip. We will have the effect of the neutral strip without any of its advantages to the street car rider."

Few Accidents in Such Zones.
Statement of R. W. Wells, receiver for the United Railways, which was read: "The street car company is restricted in earnings by the Public Service Commission. The saving in street car operation in a neutral strip will accrue, not to the railways, but to the riders themselves. St. Louis needs more rapid movement of street cars and anything that will speed cars should be undertaken as soon as possible."

The experience of the United Railways is that operation of cars in neutral strips is safer than operation mixed with other traffic. On the Delmar line between Taylor and Clara, in a 28-month period, in a section of Delmar that is paved from curb to curb, there were 15 accidents involving four injuries per 1000 feet. In that section of the Delmar line that is operated between curbs in a neutral strip the accidents were five, involving two injuries per 1000 feet, approximately one-third the number in the unprotected right-of-way."

Speakers Against Proposal.
Lee Orcutt and Arthur Bader, representing owners of property along Olive street, in rebuttal, protested that greater safety would not be accomplished and declared that to save 4 to 5 minutes in operating on Olive street would require a speed of 30 miles an hour, which would imperil the lives of the passengers.
The dispute as to whether greater or less safety would ensue seemed to be resolved by the simple statement of John Dix, who said that he had been a motorman on the Delmar line for nearly 23 years. "Very few accidents occur," he said, "on that part of the Delmar line west of Kingshighway operated in a neutral strip, compared with other parts of the line. I ask that you pass this ordinance for a neutral strip in Olive street to save the nervous energy of the men operating the cars and thus preserve them for the industry and their families."

Removal Clause Assailed.
Bader declared that the city was paying $150,000 for property on the south side of Olive street, lifting it into the center of the street and "putting a fence around it and donating it to the United Railways" by the terms of the proposed ordinance.
All of the supporting speakers declared that the railways was ready to agree to an experiment for a year, and if, at the end of that time, it appeared that the benefits asserted for the neutral strip did not materialize that the strip could be removed and the street paved from curb to curb.
Bader declared that the ordinance contained nothing touching upon such an agreement or you pass this ordinance," he declared, "it will require another ordinance."

No Cold In 5 Yrs.

The writer has not had a cold in five years. He catches colds from contacts, just as others do. But at the first sneeze he takes HILL'S. I have proved that colds do not develop when one does that.
But there are other things that millions know. HILL'S checks a cold in 24 hours after it has developed. It ends the fever, opens the bowels, tones the entire system. It leaves one feeling better than when the cold began.
HILL'S combines four of the greatest helps modern science has discovered. It was perfected by one of the largest laboratories. It is so efficient, so well proved that the present owners paid $1,000,000 for it.

I think the Phantom's talents have been grossly overestimated. He is caught; we shall find that he is quite an ordinary mortal. Don't you think so, Trippe?"

"Trippe?" the woman started, then mumbled something unintelligible under her breath.

"Well, maybe," said Pinto. "I got a feeling in my elbow that he'll be caught before night, but we'll see. He may be an ordinary mortal, but I'll be mighty anxious to know how he got out of the room. Got any ideas on the subject, Mr. Adair?"

The Phantom's frown masked his swift working of his mind, but you'll laugh when I tell you what they are. My frank opinion is that the Phantom had nothing to do with this murder."

Mr. Trippe stared at the Phantom as if expecting an astounding revelation to fall from his lips. Patrolman Pinto, too, seemed to be waiting for a statement from the Phantom. A little of the color came from his face, and for an instant his eyes held an uneasy gleam. "That's asking a lot of an amateur detective, isn't it?" he suavely asked. "Maybe it will help you, however, to know the situation as a layman. You say you are willing to swear that the murderer was not in the room when the break in it. It is almost equally certain, viewing the matter in the normal order of things, that he did not have left the room before the commission of the crime."

"Your forcible entrance. There—broke off, feeling a violent pain of blood to the head. He had been talking against time, hoping for a way of diverting Pinto's attention from himself. Suddenly he started him. His rambling assurance had led him straight to the solution of the mystery. The relation flashed through his mind like a swift, blinding glare. He saw his agitation he lighted a cigarette. Through the spinning of smoke he saw the householder's ashen face, mouth gaping, eyes staring with fierce intensity."

"I think the Phantom's talents have been grossly overestimated. He is caught in a trap. He is mortal. Don't you think so, Tripp?"

The woman started, then murmured something unintelligible under her breath.

"Maybe," said Pinto. "You've got a feeling in my elbow that he'll be caught before night, then we'll see. He may be an enemy mortal. But I'll be mighty keen to know how he got out of the room. Got any ideas on the subject, Mr. Adair?"

The Phantom's frown masked swift working of his mind. "But you'll laugh when I tell what they are. My frank opinion is that the Phantom had nothing to do with this murder."

Tripp stared at the Phantom as if expecting an astounding revelation to fall from his lips. "Patrolman Pinto, too, seemed to be about a little of the color of his face, and for an instant his eyes held an uneasy gleam. A moment, however, he had calmed himself, and a raucous voice voiced his opinion of the Phantom's last statement.

"You, amateurs, make me laugh. The Phantom had nothing to do with it, eh? Well, if you don't commit this murder, you'll tell us who did."

The Phantom, quivering alert, glared at the floor and back at Tripp. There was a bland smile on his lips and the amused twinkle in his eyes concealed the tension which his mind was laboring with. "Maybe it will help you, to know how the situation was to a layman. You say you were not in the room when the murder was committed. It is almost equally certain, viewing the matter in the normal order of things, that he did not have left the room before the commission of the crime. Your forebore entrance. There-he broke off, feeling a violent stab to the head. He had been talking against time, hoping for a way of diverting Pinto's attention from himself. Suddenly he remembered that his rambling remarks had led him straight to the solution of the mystery. The Phantom flashed through his mind like a swift, blinding glare. He hid his agitation he lighted a cigarette. Through the spinning haze of smoke he saw the housekeeper's ashen face, mouth gaping, eyes staring with fierce intens-

"Well?" prompted Pinto. His voice was a trifle shaky.

The Phantom was himself again. "Well, as I was about to say, if the murderer was not in the room when you broke in, then the circumstances point straight to you, Mr. Pinto, as the murderer of Sylvanus Gage."

For a time the room was utterly still. The policeman seemed torn between astonishment and a nervous fear. The housekeeper held her breath, her features twisted into a smile that rendered her expression ghastly. In the light of all the circumstances, it stands to reason that the man who broke through the door was the man who murdered Gage. No one else could have done it. Mrs. Tripp, do you remember how long Pinto was alone in the room after forcing his way in?

The housekeeper seemed to search her memory. "It took him several moments to find the electric light switch," she mumbled haltingly. "After that--well, he was in there for some time before he came out. Maybe two minutes, maybe five--I can't be sure."

"At any rate, long enough to drive a knife into Gage's chest." There was an exultant throb in the Phantom's tones, the eagerness of the hunter who is tracking down his quarry. "Gage, we may assume, was awakened by the noise when the door crashed in, and sprang from his bed. You probably grappled in the dark. Then--"

Pinto interrupted with a harsh strident laugh. "Some cock-and-bull story you're handing us. If I killed Gage, then Mrs. Tripp here must have been in on the job. It was she who called me and told me to force the door."

The Phantom waved his hand airily. "Because she had heard a mysterious noise. That noise may have been prearranged to give you a chance to knife Gage. I don't pretend to understand all the minor details yet, but the essentials are clear as day. You must have committed the murder, for the simple reason that nobody else could have done it."

"Yes," there was a vicious sneer in Pinto's face. "Maybe you'll tell me, then, why Gage thought the Phantom was the one who knifed him?"

"Because of the forged letter he had received the day before. Besides, Pinto, we don't know that Gage thought anything of the kind."

him against the farther wall of the chamber. In a moment, with unexpected agility, the officer had seized Mrs. Tripp by the arm and hurried her from the room.

Then a door slammed and a key turned gratingly in the lock. The Gray Phantom was alone, a prisoner.

The Way Out.

USK was falling, and the little room was almost dark. The sudden attack, all the more surprising because of Pinto's previous assurance of solidity, had left the Phantom a trifle dazed, but in a twinkling he realized the full seriousness of his dilemma. The door had no sooner slammed than he was on his feet, regaining his breath and flexing his muscles for action.

With a spring agile as a panther's he threw himself against the door. Once it had succumbed to the superior weight of Patrolman Pinto's body, but the Phantom's lesser and nimble figure was no match for its solid resistance. After three hurling himself against the obstruction, he saw that he was only wasting time and strength.

Hurriedly he switched on the light. From his pocket he took a box containing an assortment of small tools which on several occasions had stood him in good stead. In vain he tried to manipulate the lock, finding that it was too solidly imbedded in the wood. Next he tried the hinges but the flaps were fastened on the other side of the door and therefore were inaccessible. He cudgeled his wits, but to no avail; evidently the door was an impassable barrier. It seemed by far the most substantial part of the whole structure. Gage might have had it specially constructed as a protection against burglars.

He sprang to the window, then recalled that it was too narrow to permit him to crawl through. He remembered that the wily Sylvanus Gage, he grimly reflected, had eyes, quick and crafty, darted over floor, ceiling, and walls, but nowhere could he see a sign of a movable panel or a hidden passage. And he remembered Mrs. Tripp's statement that headquarters detectives had spent half a day searching for a secret exit. Though he worked his wits at furious speed, the situation baffled his ingenuity.

The Phantom perceived he was trapped. The "Yea!" of luck that had attended him in the past had made him reckless and indiscreet, and now it seemed to have deserted him like a fickle charmer. He supposed that Pinto, too, was endeavoring to deal single-handed with such a slippery and dangerous adversary as The Gray Phantom. He was already in communication with headquarters, summoning reinforcements. In a few minutes he would be hemmed in on all sides and pounced upon by overwhelming numbers of policemen, and in a little while the newspapers would shriek the sensation that at last The Gray Phantom had been captured.

It surprised him that he could view the end of his career with philosophical calm, unaffected by vain regrets. He had always suspected that some day an overbold play on his part would result in his undoing, and he had trained himself to look upon his ultimate defeat with the indifference of a cynic and fatalist, but he had never guessed that the crisis would come like this. He smiled faintly as it dawned on him that the disaster which now stared him in the face was the direct result of his determination to vindicate himself in the eyes of a woman.

He had played for high stakes in the past, but Helen Hardwick's faith in him was the highest of them all.

His smile faded as quickly as it had come. There was a sting in the realization that his boldest and biggest game was foredoomed to failure. Only a few more minutes of liberty remained, and after that all chance of exculpating himself would be gone. Officer Pinto, having become famous of a sudden as The Gray Phantom's captor, would now, more than ever before, be beyond suspicion, and he could be depended upon to make the most of his advantage. The Phantom, whose hands had never been sullied by contact with blood, would be an object of horror and loathing as the perpetrator of a vile and sordid murder. Helen Hardwick, like all the rest, would shudder at mention of his name.

The dismal thoughts went like flashes through his mind. Only a few minutes had passed since the door slammed. The thought of Helen Hardwick caused a sudden stiffening of his figure and imbued him with a fierce desire for freedom. He refused to believe that his star had set and that this was the end. Many a time he had wriggled out of corners seemingly as tight and unescapable as the present one, chucking at the discomfiture of the police and the bedevilment of his foes. Why could he not achieve another of the astounding feats that had made his name famous?

He spurred his wits to furious effort, repeatedly telling himself that somewhere there must be a way out. It was hard to believe that a man like Sylvanus Gage, living in constant danger of a surprise visit by the police, had not provided himself with an emergency exit. Despite the failure of the detectives to find it, there must be a concealed door or secret passage somewhere, though without doubt it was hidden in a way worthy of Gage's foxlike cunning.

He ran to the door and shot the bolt. The police would be forced to break their way in, and this would give him a few moments' respite. Again, as several times before in the last few minutes, his eyes strayed to the window. Though he knew it was far too narrow to afford a means of escape, it kept attracting his gaze and tantalizing his imagination. Deciding to make a second attempt, he hastened across the floor, pushed up the lower sash, and edged his shoulder into the opening. With a wriggle as he might, he could not squeeze through. Even a man of Gage's scrawny build would have become wedged in the frame had he attempted it.

Outside the house a gong clang, signaling the arrival of the police patrol. From the front came sharp commands and excited voices. Already The Phantom guessed, a cordon was being thrown around the block, ensnaring him like a fish in a net. Precious moments passed, and still he was unable to take his eyes from the window. A vague and unaccountable instinct told him that his only hope of safety lay in that direction.

He raised the shade a little and looked out upon a court disfigured by ramshackle sheds and heaps of refuse. Several temporary hiding places awaited him out there, if he could only get through the window. Even an extra inch or two added to its width would enable him to wriggle out of the trap. But how--

The answer came to him with sudden, blinding force. Yet it was simple and obvious enough. In fact, the only reason he had not thought of it before was that his mind had been searching for something more intricate and remote. It had not occurred to him that the extra inch or two that he needed could be provided by the simple expedient of dislodging the window frame.

Already his fingers were tearing and tugging at the woodwork. He noticed that the casements were thick, so that the removal of the frame would give him considerable additional space, yet he had been at work only a few moments when he discovered that his plan was far more difficult of execution than he had expected. The frame, at first glance, ill-fitting and insecurely fastened, resisted all his efforts. His nails were torn and there were bleeding scratches on his fingers. He looked about him for something that he could use as a lever.

Someone was trying the lock, then a loud pounding on the door. "Open!" commanded a voice. The Phantom, failing to find any implement that would serve his purpose, inserted his fingers beneath the sill and tugged with all his strength.

"Come and get me!" was the taunt he flung back over his shoulder. Then he pulled again, but the sill did not yield. He straightened his body and attacked the perpendicular frame to the right, but again he encountered nothing but solid resistance.

"The game's up, Phantom," said the voice outside the door. "Might as well give in. If you don't, we'll bust the door."

DANDRUFF?

Now you can control it!

You need worry no more about dandruff, that unsightly nuisance, so embarrassing to both women and men.

As you probably know, dandruff is a germ disease that no intelligent, fastidious person can afford to neglect. Because so often it is a warning of more serious scalp trouble--possibly baldness.

There is one ideal treatment to control dandruff conditions--the systematic use of Listerine, the safe antiseptic. It really works wonders this way.

The use of Listerine for dandruff is not complicated. You simply douse it on your scalp, full strength, and massage thoroughly. You'll enjoy the cleansing refreshing effect. And you will be amazed to see how this treatment, followed systematically, does the trick.

Moreover, Listerine will not discolor the hair nor will it stain fabrics. And it is not greasy.

Try Listerine for dandruff. You'll be delighted with the results.--Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, U. S. A.

Well--it worked! For quite a while we challenged people to try Listerine Tooth Paste. Sales now show what when they try it they seek to it! LARGE TUBE--25 CENTS

Petrified Fish Found in Stone.
By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—A fossil fish, believed to be 2,000,000 years old and belonging to the oldest known fish family, the ganoid, has been brought to light by the chisel of a stonecutter in a yard here. The fish, which was petrified, was found in a block of limestone. It was 10 inches long and perfect in every detail, even showing the color of the flesh and the scales. Differing from other specimens of the ganoid family, the fossil is rather round and stubby.

PUCCINI'S 'TURANDOT' IS A CORKING SHOW

Jeritza Triumphant in Premier of Composer's Last Opera at the Metropolitan.

By SAMUEL CHOTZINOFF, Music Critic of the New York World.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—What love can do was again demonstrated to local patrons of opera at the Metropolitan Opera House last night. Somewhere in the third act of "Turandot," Puccini's last opera, on his first showing in America.

Proves Mother Is Your Closest Friend

Jersey City, Mr. J. Pauli writes:—I was under the impression that I was unpleasant and was often reminded by my Mother that my breath was disagreeable. I tried various tablets, mouth washes and other camouflages which gave temporary relief. After consulting my dentist and finding my teeth in good condition, a friend suggested my trouble was constipation. After taking a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills my stomach and bowels were relieved, food and impure gases eliminated.

THE BEST COUGH SYRUP IS HOME-MADE

Have an easy way to cure it, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.
Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.
It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.
Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacal, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Worth, Tex.

PINEX for Coughs

ica, Mr. Lauri-Volpi, disguised as an Italian, grabbed the riddle-posting Madame Jeritza, tore her veil from her face and implanted on her lips what the older people in the audience must have recognized as a pre-war "kiss-kiss."
This instantly changed her character, which for two acts had been nothing to speak of. Up to the moment of the transforming kiss the Princess Turandot was planning to pull a Salome on the Prince. Unlike the perverted daughter of Herodias, it wasn't love that made Turandot hanker after the heads of the wretched men who loved her.
Originally a young lady endowed with the necessary attributes of a wife and mother, Turandot took to heart the story about one of her female friends who was being unwillingly carried off by a brute of a marauder, and took oath to make it hot for the youth who aspired to her person. Legendary China, like America, was in the midst of the questionaire, so the Princess thought up what must have been regarded in those days as posers. Anybody could have a try at the Princesses.

Intelligence Test for Suitors

All you had to do was to bang a gong under her balcony, upon which Ping, Pong and Pong, the comical Ministers of State, would appear and properly apprise you of what would happen to you if your answers were less than 100 per cent. Then you were led into the imperial palace, where, in the presence of the assembled court, the Princess demanded:
(1) What is it that springs eternal in the human breast?
(2) What is it that is warm when it flows through your veins but cold when you die?
(3) Who is it that sets on fire the heart of the man but is herself cold as ice?
These questions are boiled down from the poetic text of the libretto to save space. It seems incredible that the flower of the native and foreign nobility lost its collective head through its inability to solve these riddles and only came to realize that ancient civilizations weren't all they are cracked up to be, a prince after prince was beheaded until the advent of the "unknown" turned the tide.

A gripe to relate what a poor sport the princess turned out, for instead of surrendering herself to the one who passed the intelligence test she began inventing new difficulties and would have ended up as the most unpopular girl in China if the prince hadn't kissed her in the nick of time. As it was Turandot became a changed woman, and the populace rejoiced and the king, her father, did the handsome thing by giving the unknown half of his kingdom and all of his daughter.
If all this isn't real to you, it was to Puccini, who clothed the Chinese protagonists in complete suits of Italian melody. These were not as well cut or made from as good material as the melodies of "Tosca" or "Boheme" or "Butterfly," but seen from a distance, with the theatrical light of Puccini's orchestration full upon them, they seemed to have the same sheen.
From the point of view of the theater, Puccini was undoubtedly the Belasco of opera. He evolved a good working formula at a time when he might have safely depended on his musical inspiration alone, and when he felt that he couldn't depend any longer on inspiration he staked everything on the formula. Those who were present at "Turandot" showed by their interest and enthusiasm that the formula worked nearly as well as the inspiration. The melodies had the same easily recognizable Puccini design enhanced, as always, by being played and sung in unison. In tragic or passionate moments the brasses and kettledrums lacerated the hearts of even the most sophisticated opera goers. Trip notes can hardly be resisted by anybody, so the principal tenor and soprano parts bore heavily on the upper register.

Now and again there are moments of first-rate Puccini. The "Houma casa, nell' Houma" sung by Ping at the beginning of the second act and the subsequent trio with his two comrades is melodiously tender music. The music for the three riddles is dramatic and shows Puccini at his clearest in the score. The composer uses the same tune for all the questions, which is as it should be in a fairy tale.
Ovation for Jeritza.
On the other hand, the music allotted to Liu, the girl slave who kills herself rather than reveal the name of the unknown prince who she loves, seemed to me insipid and too reminiscent of Mimi in "Boheme." Puccini did not live to complete the last scene, which his friend, Alfano, finished from sketches left by the composer. Alfano made a good job of it, but his finale is more daring harmonically than the rest of the opera.
As everyone expected, Jeritza as "Turandot" made a stunning picture. There was a real ovation for her at the end of the second act, and the enthusiasm she created almost swamped the opera in her personal triumph. Mr. Lauri-Volpi was a stentorian and ardent riddle guesser.
Miss Martha Atwood, a newcomer, made her debut in the important part of Liu, the slave girl, in which she revealed a soprano voice of ordinary caliber. De Luca was, of course, an admirable Ping, and Raval Ludikar, also a newcomer, who sang the father of the unknown prince, has a bass of good quality.
The last duet and finale were arranged from the composer's sketches by Franco Alfano. The opera first was performed at La Scala, in Milan, April 25, 1926. The cast:
Princess Turandot.... Marie Jeritza
The Emperor Altoun.... Max Altglass
Timur.... Pavel Ludikar (debut)
The Unknown Prince Calaf.... Giacomo Lauri-Volpi

Webster Near Second Straight County Title

Team Favored to Defeat Clayton in Thanksgiving Day Contest.

With the end of the County High School football season not far off, it appears that Webster will annex its second title in as many years, since Webster is scheduled to play Clayton Thanksgiving in the final game of the year. This Friday, Normanly and Kirkwood will meet at Kirkwood to decide third place honors, and Ritenour will strive for its first victory, playing Wellington at Wellington.

Clayton is still smarting under the 12 to 2 punishment administered by University City last week. Coach Sam Hall announced that injuries and ineligibilities will curtail the chances of Webster. Rabanau, an end, and Litz, center, will be ineligible for the Webster battle, while Kinnum, a tackle, and Brueggeman, an end, will miss the game because of injuries. The only bright spot in Clayton's horizon is the return of Paul Kiebler, a half-back.

University City moved up into second place by defeating Clayton, and St. Charles and Normanly are tied for the third position, as a result of last week's games.

The outcome of the Normanly-Kirkwood fray is shrouded in doubt, as both teams have played the same brand of football and seem to be equal in strength. Wellington is favored to defeat the weak Ritenour team.

University City, St. Charles and Ferguson completed their schedules last week.

COMMANDER INGRAM COMES OUT AGAINST "EASTERN CONFERENCE"

By the Associated Press. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17.—"The proposed Eastern conference of football teams is all bunk," Commander Jonas H. Ingram, athletic director of the United States Naval Academy, declared yesterday on his return from the Army-Notre Dame game in New York. "Such a plan," he said, referring to a proposed conference patterned after the Western Conference, to replace the scheduled Big Three, "would never work out to anyone's satisfaction. There are too many schools in the East and the thing is bound to become unwieldy."

Signal Drill All Winter, Scrimmage All Spring Make Notre Dame's Teams Great

Rockne's System for Developing Football Eleven by Year-Round Training Followed by Meehan and Now New York U. Is Undefeated.

By Lawrence Perry. (Copyright, 1926.) NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—As the unbeaten New York University football eleven departs for Lincoln, Neb., to meet the powerful University of Nebraska team Saturday, it might be interesting to coaches and fans throughout the country to learn of the important secrets of Coach Meehan's success in building a machine so versatile and so coordinated as the outfit which inhabits University Heights.

In football, when you pry into the mysteries of offense or team handling, you are most likely to find the answer in the system of the coach. At still other times he lets the cat out of the bag, whether by design or not.

So far as N. Y. U. is concerned, certain methods of Knute Rockne are encountered. Sometimes Knute is quite frank and so far as the writer knows, Coach Meehan of New York University was the one coach who saw it. To be more plain, what Rockne did was to let slip very quietly the system under which he develops Notre Dame eleven. It may be termed a year-round system.

Putting the system into a single sentence, Notre Dame football men have a signal practice all winter; they scrimmage all spring—10 weeks of the hardest sort of scrimmage—and in the fall they play football games. Meehan saw the beauty of the scheme and last winter he arranged first a plan of daily gymnasium work for the football men. They went upon the basketball court equipped with a regulation football and played a curious sort of a game.

First, they played five minutes of basketball. Then in the next five minutes the baskets were removed. Players of each side passed the ball as hard as they could to any other player. It was the duty of the player not holding the ball to be ready to catch it. The penalty of unrecovered or better—finers was to have the swiftly spinning oval hit the receiver in the head.

It is not fun to be beaten by a heavily-beaten football end, as a cheerleader of self-defense, the men developed expert facility in catching the ball.

Position at Lunch Time. All this in the late afternoon and evening. Meehan found that in the morning from 11:15 to 12:15 time was another period in which most of the football men found themselves free from classroom work. So at this time, throughout the winter, save upon the few occasions when snow was too deep, the squad turned out for practice formations, forward heading, punt line, and so on.

The result was that when the squad reported last September they were so trained with football as a big league team is primed with baseball when the national pastime starts in April. In fact Meehan holds that all the timing and rhythm of big league baseball would not be in evidence in April and May were it not for the inter-

WESLEYAN TEAM BEATS WILLIAM JEWELL 17 TO 7

By the Associated Press. LIBERTY, Mo., Nov. 17.—Led by Capt. Gray, who scored two touchdowns, the Wesleyan College football team defeated William Jewell here yesterday, 17 to 7. Gray scored in the first few minutes on a pass and a few moments later ran 40 yards through the Jewell team for a touchdown.

"Big Ten" Expect Capacity Crowds At Final Games

Last 4500 Seats for Minnesota-Michigan Game Saturday Quickly Sold.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The Western Conference football season is just about over except for the shouting, but Big Ten schools dusted off their extra stadium seats today to permit a record-breaking volume at Saturday's finale.

Every available inch in Minnesota's big stands already has been claimed by fans looking for a battle royal in the second clash of the year between the Gophers and Michigan, one of the two undefeated eleven in the conference fight.

Fans stood in line through the night when the final block of 4500 went on sale, and advices from Minneapolis say that the press-boards can't be had any more.

Illinois to Entertain Ohio. At Illinois, Zuppke's men seem sure to draw a capacity crowd to watch their attempt to climb in Big Ten standing at the expense of Ohio, which dropped from the top by a one-point victory for Michigan. The Buckeyes rule a slight favorite now.

The Wisconsin-Chicago game is an annual classic for their two home towns, and even with the eleven fighting to keep above the cellar this fall, Chicago looks for one of the biggest crowds of the year. Both teams are in the midst of a late-season change to radical shift in play, stressing the aerial game, and anything can happen in their meeting.

Half of Iowa turned out to overflow the Hawkeye Stadium once this fall, and there are prospects of an approximation of the crowd when the Hawkeyes seek Saturday to rise and spoil undefeated Northwestern's chances of tying Michigan.

Indiana and Purdue Meet. The Hoosier civil war between Indiana and Purdue is a crowd-drawing attraction, and there, as elsewhere, the final appearance of familiar stars is a feature of the closing day of the season.

Having turned back Mississippi A. and M., Indiana is bending every effort toward humbling Purdue and forgetting the rest of a disappointing year.

Notre Dame closes a Midwestern year simultaneously with the 10 conference teams. Rockne entertaining Drake before starting on the swing which takes the conquerors of Army first to Carnegie Tech and then to Southern California.

The writer found a splendid spirit at University Heights. The football men are playing the game hard and studying hard and performing their various tasks faithfully. The bright lights of the Great White Way do not draw them; their diversion is found in Bronx movie houses. Sunday afternoons in the spring and early summer the Yankee baseball management passes them free into the stadium and in general life off the campus is confined to the Bronx.

MEETING SATURDAY TO BRING PRINCETON AND HARVARD BACK

By the Associated Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Preliminary steps for an undergraduate attempt to iron out the Harvard-Princeton difficulties resulting from the break in athletic relations last week will be taken in New Haven Saturday after the Harvard-Yale game.

Leo Daley, president of the Harvard Student Council, last night announced he would meet Joseph Prendergast, president of the Princeton undergraduate governing body, in New Haven to form plans for bringing together "representative committees of the two universities" for attempted solution of the problem.

Daley admitted that with Ohio State already on Princeton's football schedule next fall in place of Harvard and Pennsylvania already signed on the Princeton dates for the next two years at Harvard, little could be accomplished in patching up football differences for the present.

TO APPEAL SAGE TAX CLAIM

U. S. Treasury Seeks to Collect $1,541,913 From Estate. WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—At the request of the Treasury, the Department of Justice has decided to continue its court fight to collect $1,541,913 taxes from the estate of the late widow of Russell Sage, American financier who died 20 years ago.

The court held that the estate, which had been left to charitable and educational institutions was exempt from taxation under the revenue law. The Treasury contends, however, that the income from the estate is not exempt pending its administration and asked that an appeal be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals. The request was granted by the Justice Department.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—all eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective in bringing about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known as the "Liver King" and are sold in their silver color. Price 50c and $1.00.

Auction Bridge As Played by Experts

GAME FIVE

IN the radio bridge game broadcast last night from Station KSD, Mrs. Ella G. Pimm of Montreal, Canada, demonstrated a remarkable card-reading ability which seems nothing short of miraculous to the novice. However, the process of reasoning by which the expert determines just which cards are in each of the closed hands is logical and easy to understand, once it has been explained. We believe this year's series of radio bridge games will do a great deal toward setting the general level of bridge playing, both in this and other respects.

In last night's game, Mrs. Pimm played with Mr. H. A. Lorick of Atlanta, Ga., against Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead. The hands were as follows:

Mr. Lorick, in the "South" seat, as dealer: Spades, J, 8, 6, 3; Hearts, 7, 5, 3; Diamonds, 5; Clubs, Q, 7, 6, 5.

Mr. Whitehead, "West": Spades, 7, 5, 4, 2; Hearts, K, 10, 9; Diamonds, J, 9, 6, 2; Clubs, 10, 4.

Mrs. Pimm, "North": Spades, A, K, 9; Hearts, Q, 6; Diamonds, A, 10, 8; Clubs, J, 9, 8, 3, 2.

Mr. Work, "East": Spades, Q, 10; Hearts, A, J, 4, 3, 2; Diamonds, A, K, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; Clubs, A, K.

The first three bidders properly passed. Mr. Work, fourth hand, had a strong holding which justified either a diamond or a no-trump bid. Had he bid a diamond, it would have been for the purpose of feeling out the strength in the spade suit, which probably would have come out on the second round of bidding.

Mr. Work explained that a fourth hand diamond bid after three passes tells the partner that the bidder has a very strong hand, but is weak in some one suit and therefore hesitates to bid no-trump. The partner is expected to take the bidder out, either in no-trump or a suit, preferably a major, unless he has a very weak hand or thinks the diamond suit offers the best chance for game. A suit response gives the first bidder the choice of staying in to suit, of bidding no-trump if the suit bid by partner happens to be the original bidder's weak suit, or of rebidding his diamonds.

However, Mr. Work, elected to bid the no-trump. His spade holding was Q, J, 10, therefore more than a jack and two small spades in his partner's hand would have constituted a stopper. Moreover, both opponents had passed. It seemed to Mr. Work that there was no serious chance of the spade suit being run against him.

Mr. Work's one no-trump held the bid. It was the up to Mr. Lorick to lead. His partner, Mrs. Pimm, had not bid. He held three four-card suits, the strongest only queen high. He made the conventional lead of the four-highest from this suit—the 5 spot of clubs.

Dummy was spread, and Mr. Work paused to take stock of his chances for game. He could count two heart, two club, and two diamond tricks. For game, he needed three more. He saw the possibility of two more heart tricks if he could guess the location of the queen and finesse the right way. For the third additional trick, he would have to establish the diamonds. There were only four against him, and if they were divided two and two, he could easily make five diamond tricks. He decided to play his high diamonds, hoping for this division.

He put Dummy's 4 of clubs on the first trick; Mrs. Pimm played the 8 spot (the lowest of the four cards she and Dummy held in sequence). Mr. Work took the trick with the king.

He then led the ace of diamonds, hoping the diamonds would break favorably for him. Mr. Lorick played the 5; Dummy the 2; Mrs. Pimm the 8 spot. Mr. Work continued with the king; Mr. Lorick discarded the 3 of hearts, the lowest card of his weakest suit; Dummy played the 9 of diamonds, in order not to block Declarer in the suit; and Mrs. Pimm the 10.

Mr. Work knew he had to lose a trick to Mrs. Pimm's diamond queen; but he hoped that Mrs. Pimm would return clubs to her partner. Mr. Work could win the club and then have two good diamonds. Mr. Lorick's discard of the heart led Mr. Work to think the queen was in Mrs. Pimm's hand. In this case a heart finesse from Dummy through her hand would be successful and Mr. Work would go game.

Therefore Mr. Work led the 3 of diamonds; Mr. Lorick threw off the 5 of hearts; Dummy played the jack of diamonds; and Mrs. Pimm won with the queen.

Here, however, Mrs. Pimm out-venered Mr. Work. It happened that when her partner made his original lead of the 5 of clubs, Mrs. Pimm held the 2 and 3 in her own hand, and Dummy disclosed the 4 spot. This told Mrs. Pimm at once that declarer led the lowest of a four-card suit. It told her also that he had no five-card suit, since if he had one, he certainly would have preferred to lead from it against a no-trump declaration than from one of four cards. He had played a singleton diamond. His original holding therefore must have been one diamond, four hearts, four spades and four clubs.

Counting the exposed clubs and those in her own hand, Mrs. Pimm placed Mr. Work with just one more. She was clever enough to infer that it must be the ace, or else Mr. Work would not have led out his diamonds so boldly. She decided not to give him back the lead by playing clubs.

Of the other two suits, spades seemed to offer the best chance to defeat Declarer's game. Her partner had advertised weakness in hearts by discarding two small spots. He still held four spades. She herself held three to the A, K and Dummy had four. This left two for the Declarer, which would fall on her A, K. Her partner must hold at least two higher than any of Dummy's.

Mrs. Pimm therefore led her king and ace of spades, catching Mr. Work's 10 and queen. Mr. Lorick played first his 6 and then the 3, as a "come-on" signal for his partner to continue the suit. She did so, her 9 of spades. Mr. Lorick took the trick with his jack, and followed with his good 8 spot. On these two tricks Mr. Work discarded the 2 and 4 of hearts.

Mr. Lorick then played the 6 of clubs; Dummy the 10; Mrs. Pimm the jack; Mr. Work the ace.

Mr. Work led the 4 of diamonds; Mr. Lorick discarded the 10 of hearts; Dummy won with the 6 of diamonds; Mrs. Pimm played the 3 of clubs.

Dummy led the king of hearts; Mrs. Pimm played the 6; Mr. Work the jack, and Mr. Lorick the 8. Dummy next led the 10 of hearts; Mrs. Pimm played her queen; Mr. Work won with his ace. His last diamond, of course, was good for the last trick, giving him only two tricks in no-trump where he would have made a game against any player less astute than Mrs. Pimm.

Mrs. Pimm's ability to place cards, of course, depended on her faith that her partner knew and practiced the conventional leads—

He'll catch cold!

The cop might just as well leave his clothes at home as forget to keep a box of Smith Brothers Cough Drops handy in his pocket! For nasty weather, they're a necessity. Have Smith Brothers ready and avoid colds, sore throats and hoarseness.

a faith which a good player is careful never to disappoint. With this teamwork between partners, and the practice that comes with continued playing, Mrs. Pimm says it is possible for any bridge player to place the cards hidden in the closed hands, after a certain stage in the game.

31 YEARS IN ST. LOUIS

All This Time In Search of Something That Would Make Life More Pleasant—Then He Saw It Advertised in the Papers; Now He Is Cheerful and Happy.

"I am now 100 per cent proficient for my work as a result of finding the thing most desired by a medicine I have been in search of for years; I found it, am enjoying good health and am cheerful and happy," thus remarked Edwin J. Ely, 5236 North Broadway, St. Louis, in a recent interview with the special representative at Walgreen's Drug Store.

EDWIN J. ELY.
Mr. Ely, employed by the Fisher Body Company for several years, told the representative a few days ago that his medicine (Herb Extract—for years called Herb Juice)—had done more in relieving him of his ailments and building up his health than anything else he had ever taken. Continuing with his statement, Mr. Ely said: "I didn't think it was possible to get the quick relief and beneficial results which I have derived from your medicine in such a surprisingly short time. It worked so well in my case from the very start that I felt sure it was the very thing I had been seeking all these years, and my further use of it proved I was correct in so believing. My constipated condition was overcome as a result of my bowels being regulated and my system purified. And the stomach disorders which have bothered me so long disappeared with the using of this medicine, also that tired, worn-out feeling; now I can carry on with my work in a satisfactory manner, while, as before, I could hardly do day's work without becoming completely fatigued. I am so well pleased with the results obtained from Herb Juice, I just want to tell everybody about it. What a wonderful laxative, tonic and system regulator it is, and how effectively it works in relieving a constipated condition, such as I had for years. I take great pleasure in recommending this medicine to others, for in so doing I can tell about it in good faith, knowing from actual test and experience what it will do."

Don't fail to see the Herb Juice man, direct from the Herb Juice Laboratories, who has established headquarters at Walgreen's drug store, 514 Washington avenue, and learn more of this great medicine that has relieved thousands of people right here in St. Louis. This great Herbal Extract remedy, called Herb Juice, now selling at the rate of more than a million bottles yearly.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY I ENVY MEN.

I ENVY a man lots of things. His freedom, his strength, his optimism, his glaze hair cuts, his golf arm, his appetite, and his buoyancy!

But most of all, I envy him his COMPLACENCY—his beautiful self-complacency!

Men are so sure of themselves! So utterly and obviously self-confident!

If women could be only half as sure of themselves, as confident that God made them to be loved, what a wonderful world this would be!

A man, for instance, never says, "May I call this evening?" or "Would you care to see me?"

Oh no! He says, "Are you going to be at home this evening?" If you're going to be at home, naturally, you'll be delighted to see him!

He never says, "What plays would you like to see?"

He says, "I have tickets for 'The Jollies.' Want to go?"

He never says, "Where would you like to dine?"

He says, "I know a jolly little place where I'm going to take you for dinner!"

If a woman lost a front tooth she would die before she would let a man see her until her facade had been repaired. But what man ever thought that a little thing like a hole in the front of his face would make him any less kissable?

If a woman's nose is a trifle too long or a bit too snubby, she goes through life painfully conscious of it. She is continually powdering it and viewing it from different angles in her pocket mirror.

That's vanity!

But no man, except Cyrano or a movie actor, ever bothered about the shape, length or style of his nose. He doesn't even remember that he HAS a nose, except when he has a cold, or when it gets painfully sunburned.

THAT'S complacency!

In all his life, there are only three times when a man suffers from self-consciousness. When he walks down the aisle to be married, when he slips and falls on an icy sidewalk, and when he happens to be the only man in evening dress at a party!

At all other times, he is perfectly nonchalant!

When a man doesn't make love to a woman, she wonders what is the matter with her.

When a woman won't let a man make love to her, HE wonders what is the matter with her! He is astonished and hurt. Astonished that she could be so blind to her own good fortune—and hurt that he should have wasted a whole evening on "a flat tire."

Whereas she may not be a "flat tire," at all—and her sole reason for not kissing him is—would you BELIEVE it!—that she doesn't WANT to!

Oh, Man's self-complacency is perfectly gorgeous and right and natural. It's the secret of his success and his magnetism.

I do not blame him for it—I ENVY him!

How to Use Face Powder

By Lucretia Bori

THE constant use of face powder in compact form is decidedly harmful to the skin. It is responsible for a goodly percentage of the increasing number of enlarged pores discernible among women today.

Face powder must be made to harden if it is to be formed into convenient cakes that will fit into charming little vanity cases. Yet to make face powder into cake form it is necessary to add a certain amount of lead to the powder. Lead is harmful to the skin, drying up the natural oils and, in many cases, eating away the outer layer of skin around the pores, thus enlarging them.

Compact face powder is too handy to be thrown into the discard entirely, yet its harmful features should be thoroughly understood and guarded against. For use in the evening, when purses, pockets and other convenient carriers are not practical, compact face powder is a decided advantage. Used even several times each week on special occasions, it won't cause serious damage to the skin. This is especially so if vanishing cream is used as a base for the powder and a cleansing cream used to thoroughly remove it at the end of the festivities. The real danger lies in allowing the compact form to supplant entirely the loose form of face powder.

There is a tricky little powder puff that is splendid to keep loose powder from spilling and it can be purchased at most department stores. It is made of two pieces of material cut into the same shape. These are sewn together, leaving just one small hole about a quarter of an inch long. A snapper is fastened on either side of this opening. One piece of the material is of decorated pattern, but the other is the usual powder puff material. In the latter a dozen or so small holes have been pierced.

The puff is filled by putting the usual loose face powder into the small opening. When the snappers are closed the powder won't come out, nor will it sift out of the perforations in the puff side unless it is patted against the skin.

Small vanity boxes may also be used in carrying loose powder. Many of these boxes have an inner lid that keeps the powder from coming out.

Dressed to the Queen's Taste

Sketched for the Post-Dispatch By MARGUERITE MARTYN

Varied Costumes Worn by Queen Marie of Rumania and Princess Ileana on Their Recent Visit to St. Louis.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

QUEEN MARIE of Rumania came to us with the reputation of being the most beautiful Queen in Europe, of pronouncedly artistic tastes and most progressive ideas. Also it had been heralded that a complete wardrobe just for the American tour had been purchased in Paris.

So the costumes she chose for her public appearances, which were almost continuous during her 24-hour stay in St. Louis, as sketched by one of her most faithful followers from place to place, may interest the readers of the women's pages.

Enveloped in a long mole skin coat that had a collar of some shaggy dark gray fur, she descended from the royal train for the drive through the city. It was strictly a traveling coat and was accompanied by a small felt hat of the sports genre, such as we are all wearing this winter. A bunch of artificial violets was pinned to the collar of the coat.

Beneath the wrap could be detected a frock of beige crepe. This proved to be when later revealed at the luncheon attended by a small group of women at the Concordia, to be a gown of the simplest possible cut; simple bloused, long sleeved, slightly draped skirt, no trimming whatever except a knot of orchid colored silk flowers pinned at the left of the rolled collar.

Three strands of pearls, old pearl ear rings were worn, but no other jewelry. She had left off her hat and her hair, pale gold, waved back from her high smooth forehead, the wave slightly parted at the side and shingled at the back.

For the afternoon drive the only change of costume was the substitution of a gold cloth turban for the sports hat.

At dinner at the Chase the Queen was both regal and picturesque in a head-dress which followed the outlines of the veiled turbans worn by the native Rumanian peasantry, but constructed solidly of pearls and diamonds or their lustrous counterparts in paste. Her dinner gown in which later she appeared at the horse show was a white spangled effect, cut low, but having long, flowing sleeves of pink, almost cerise, chiffon.

Being called the greatest match-maker in Europe, having already placed two daughters upon royal thrones, this Queen, with one remaining marriageable daughter to exhibit, should be able to show us just what costumes make a young girl appear to the best advantage.

The first appearance of Princess Ileana was in a gray squirrel coat which she wore closed from throat to hem, the hem coming just about three inches below her knees. She, too, wore one of the very popular small felt hats in a dark purple shade. This hat, it was discovered later, when she appeared at the luncheon, exactly matched in color her frock, which was of cloth of a texture something like duvetyne. It was made absolutely plain and straight except for kick pleats at the side of the skirt and a string belt tied at a low waistline. Her hair also is bobbed, and is dark and very thick. Her cheeks were highly colored, naturally so, one observed as the color came and went.

Ileana is a happy-looking girl who smiles and shows her gleaming white teeth most of the time, and blushes frequently and seems absolutely natural and free from pose.

She changed her costume only once during the day, though she attended two more functions than did her mother, the tea at the Country Club and the debut party of Miss Kilpatrick. At the dinner, the horse show and the debut ball she wore white satin embroidered with rhinestones, cut square at the neck and without sleeves, but with wide shoulder bands. She also wore a head-dress of brilliant, a band across her brow like her mother's, though not nearly so wide and without the festoons of jewels at the sides.

Never borrow trouble. If the evil is not to come, it is useless and so much waste, if it is to come, best keep all your strength to meet it.—Edwards.

MISS MARTHA LOVE AND THE PRINCESS ILEANA.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST By Aline Michaelis

I WOULD soothe my senses' tumult with the singing of the trees. I would let my soul with music all the day, so that on the fragrant murmur of the wind's soft melodies all my cares like falling leaves would float away. Not a hint of springtime greenness, not a stir of budding leaf, only dancing, drifting flecks of gold and red dropping down through all this loveliness that nature makes so brief, drifting down upon the forest's fragrant bed. I would let the autumn winds to me her tender song of rest, as a child whose mother croons a slumber song; I would listen to her voice as they whisper: "Sleep is best," for her winds have soothed my senses with their song.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't Show!

There's a way to keep your hair just so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful luster!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave. Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff. Dissolves every

Milton Work's Pointers On Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK.

IN yesterday's Bridge article I urged against doubling information with less than five high cards, and I emphasized the importance of sticking to this rule so that every double will be dependable and furnish partner with the reliable information which he must have to properly answer it: an answer to a double being the declaration which partner makes if the intervening adversary passes.

Yesterday I gave four hands, in all of which Dealer (South) bid one No Trump, Second Hand (West) doubled. Third Hand (North) passed, and the question was what answer Fourth Hand (East) should make to West's informative double; the score being love-all.

1. Sp: 7-6-3-2. Ht: Ace-Queen-8. Dia: Ace-Queen-10-4. Cl: 4-3. East should bid two Spades. When answering the double of a dependable doubler, bid a four-card Major in preference to a stronger four-card (or even five-card) Minor.

2. Sp: J-10-7-6. Ht: Ace-Queen-3. Dia: Ace-Queen-10-4-2. Cl: 7. East should bid two Spades. Two other declarations might be considered; a pass, which would be a Business Pass (that is, a pass made instead of the expected bid, in order to obtain a penalty), and which probably would accomplish its purpose; the other possible declaration would be two No Trumps, which probably would win the game. But if the Dealer has what is known as a Club No Trump (a long solid Club suite with a little side strength) things might go very badly for either the Business Pass or the two No Trumps. Bidding the Spades promises game and is not attended with any risk.

3. Sp: 10-7-2. Ht: King-6. Dia: King-Queen-10-5. Cl: Ace-10-4-2. East should pass. With great Minor strength he should try for the big penalty which the Business Pass often produces. Two No Trumps is an alternate declaration to be considered if playing the rubber game.

4. Sp: 7-6-3. Ht: 6-4-2. Dia: 5-6-4. Cl: 5-4-3-2. East should bid two Clubs. It is greater the weakness the essential take-out. "Of all Bridge words, the saddest is 'Partner, I knew you would take you out, but I had strength to do it.'" The bid leaves his partner in the best position to make the most of his strength (and a dependable answer) is a Business Pass.

It is really the dependence of the doubler that makes possible the double can be relied upon to produce results almost unlimited in scope.

So the pointer for today is: Double conservatively and optimistically.

Do you think any of these sound? Second-Hand dealer's Dealer's No Trump?

1. Sp: x. Ht: Jack-10-9. Ace-King-x-x. Cl: King-10-x.

2. Sp: x-x. Ht: King-9-8. Ace-x-x. Cl: King-Queen-10-x.

3. Sp: Ace-10-x-x. Ht: King-Queen-x-x. Dia: King-Jack-x-x.

Shopping for The Winter Blankets

By HANNAH WING

Now is indeed the time to take stock of the linen closets and cedar chests and make up the lists of what is needed in blankets.

You will find that this year's display of bedding will show some remarkable and very lovely color effects. This is particularly true of the newly developed cotton blankets, which now appear in delicate shades of many colors, some which a blanket may be selected to match the color scheme of the walls and hangings of the bedroom. A process of double cloth weaving and special napping has given the cotton blanket a luxuriously soft, fluffy appearance, and due to the air caught and held in the weave and in the fluffy nap the new cotton blanket has much greater warmth and is much lighter than its predecessor of a former day. Because of its color, lightness and warmth, the cotton blanket may be selected in the place of the former cotton comforter as an extra covering or in the place of the usual bed blanket.

Beautiful all-wool blankets and down puffs are the real luxuries of bed covering. It is the nature of the wool fiber to be very elastic, therefore in the weaving and napping of wool each fiber springs back from its neighbor, causing a dry air chamber to be formed between fibers. It is this which makes the blanket or any other wool made in a comparatively light weight and warm. If these little chambers of still air are forced out of a blanket, as when a blanket is packed down in laundering, then the blankets will feel heavy and will have lost warmth. In selecting a blanket, therefore, choose one that feels rather spongy, slightly wiry, light in weight and has a deep fuzz or napped surface. Look carefully to see that a heavy nap does not cover weakly constructed cloth. Pull the blanket between the hands; if the foundation yarns have a tendency to separate, the blanket will not give satisfactory wear, as too many fibers have been pulled up from the foundation yarns to make the nap.

It is a question whether the commercial all-wool (88 per cent wool) blankets are as satisfactory as those in which there is about 75 per cent cotton. In the first place, the yarns of a blanket seem to be somewhat strengthened by the small percentage of cotton added, and secondly, a very small percentage of cotton assists in keeping the wool fibers from matting when laundered.

Blankets are usually sold double, but they are much more easily handled if cut apart and bound together. The most satisfactory blanket is one of fine quality of material, though many prefer binding blankets, especially when new, with satin ribbon. Regular mohair blanket binding may be purchased at a notion counter. It is easy to use and makes a satisfactory, durable finish.

If you like to have a blanket tucked in all around with a general fold-over, buy the larger size—the double or the quarter bed size for the single bed, a longer blanket than usual, etc. Lengths range from 76 inches to 90 inches, widths from 48 inches for single beds, 60 inches by 78 or 66 by 82 inches for three-quarter beds, and 72 by 90 inches, 72 by 82 or 72 by 84 inches for double beds.

Glass Finished Evening Dresses.

GLASS as a medium for wearing apparel is not a new idea. Several years ago gowns of spun glass were exploited and a few appeared at evening functions and received much favorable comment. The word comes from London that glass-treated velvet is being used for evening wear over there.

Both plain and brocade velvet receive the liquid glass treatment. Each is applied with a brush and the result is a shimmering effect that is new and quite different from the shimmering of sequins and beads. The glass-treated velvet is being used for evening wear over there.

Reddy Finds Some Feathers

Tricky folk expect of you The tricks that they themselves would do.

—Old Mother Nature.

REDDY FOX was impatient to get over to the Green Forest. He was impatient to get over to the place where Mrs. Grouse had been shot. In his own mind, he wasn't at all sure that Mrs. Grouse had been killed. He wanted to find out for himself all he could about what had happened there. There is nothing in the world that Reddy would rather have for dinner than a plump grouse. He had tried many times to catch Mrs. Grouse, but she had always been too smart for him. That was because she had wings. At least, that's what Reddy said. She was smart, but if she hadn't had wings he was sure he would have caught her long ago.

Reddy hurried along the old cow-paths through the Old Pasture over to the edge of the Green Forest. When he reached the Green Forest, he moved with the greatest care. That hunter with the terrible gun might be there still. Reddy didn't want that terrible gun pointed at him. Presently, Reddy met Prickly Porky the Porcupine. "Have you seen that hunter with the terrible gun around here?" inquired Reddy in his politest manner.

Prickly Porky wasn't polite at all. He merely grunted and shuffled along to the tree he meant to climb.

Presently, Reddy met Bobby Coon. "Hello, Bobby," said Reddy. "What's this I hear about Mrs. Grouse being shot over here in the Green Forest?"

"The same thing I hear, I guess," replied Bobby. "I guess it is true enough. I heard the bang, bang of the terrible gun. I haven't seen Mrs. Grouse since. Isn't it dreadful?"

"Yes," said Reddy. "It is dreadful." And to hear him you would have thought that he was filled with sadness. As a matter of fact, he wasn't. He was filled with impatience at the minute, but he didn't want Bobby Coon to know it. As soon as he could, Reddy said goodbye and went on, so that presently he came to the place in the Green Forest where Mrs. Grouse had been shot.

For several minutes Reddy stood looking and listening, his black ears cocked forward, his bright eyes searching among the trees for the least little movement.

GLASS as a medium for wearing apparel is not a new idea. Several years ago gowns of spun glass were exploited and a few appeared at evening functions and received much favorable comment. Now word comes from London that glass-treated velvet is being used for evening wear over there.

Both plain and brocade velvet receive the liquid glass treatment, which is applied with a brush and gives the shimmering effect which is now requisite in fashionable evening attire. It is, however, more subdued than beads and sequins and another advantage is that it does not scatter itself over the floor as beads and sequins are apt to do.

The glass-finished fabric has a sparkling surface that resembles crystals of infinitesimal diamonds and popular dazzling fabrics for evening wear.

Some New Ensembles.

Matched flowers and belt sets, made of baby calskin, are attractive and new.

Gloves and handbags, the leathers are different, but the colors match perfectly. Gray mode and black are the favorite colors.

Shoes and gloves, the shoes are of reptilian leather, and the kid gloves are trimmed with the same leather.

Gloves and boutonniere, the glove is constructed of colored tulle and the leaves of rhinestones. The gloves have a band of rhinestones, and the embroidered tulle in matching sequins or rhinestones.

Bracelets and bangles—they are of metal chain, with square cabochon stones in bright colors, and have buckles to match.

MODISH MITZI Dad Has An Absent-Minded Moment By Jay V. Jay

Dad being intent upon a chess problem has no more than a murmured, "Very nice, my dear," for Mitzi's coat of sweet gaze— which is no more gazed than stenciled kid can ever be! Mitzi, having had these two coats sent home on approval, is anxious for his opinion.

So she turns it other side out and shows him that it is really reversible and that the futurist effect in two shades of brown in a smart wool fabric is really half of the reason for wanting the coat. Even now he doesn't seem properly impressed.

Perhaps he'll like this one better. It's of black cashmere—soft finish, but it doesn't wrinkle—and the long stole collar is stenciled Barondukki. (Yes, it's the kid, same as the other one.) Dad is figuring that the forty-fifth move he'll win the game.

The second coat is reversible, too, and Mitzi is explaining just how necessary it is to her wardrobe. Dad has discovered that it will take 78 moves to solve his chess problem so he merely says: "Well, buy all four of them,"—solving Mitzi's problem easily enough!

Mother Love By LUCY LOWELL

MOTHER love—real mother love—is the only completely unselfish thing in the world. It is about the only human emotion which asks nothing for itself and expects nothing and which finds perfect happiness in the sight of another's happiness. Like all good things, however, mother love is limited.

When Emily got out and found herself a job her friends all said: "How brave she is! At her time of life—she's 40 if she's a day—and with her seven children and all!"

And Emily explained that she wanted her children to have as much as other children have. Her husband, she went on, couldn't earn enough to take care of them as she wanted them taken care of. Alice gave up high school. There had to be someone to look after the younger ones. Anyway Alice wasn't a particularly good student, said Emily, though she was crazy about school. She was seventeen then.

Billy, a year younger, took to roaming. He always was spending the night here or there with one of "the boys." Emily sent for him at first. Then she didn't bother any more.

And the younger kids got along. When strangers came to the house they had a way of sneaking around behind furniture and doors and peering out and gazing. Their table manners became so outrageous that Emily thought it best for them to eat in the kitchen. And Laura, the baby of two, developed stomach trouble.

"But things don't worry me like they did," said Emily after she'd been drawing a weekly wage for a year or so. "Being away so much I don't see 'em, and what you don't see doesn't get on your nerves!"

"Besides, we're getting along fine now. The children are the best dressed of any in the neighborhood."

Evening Gowns in General By Janet Winslow

EVENING gowns this season are classic in line. They are abbreviated in some cases and overabundant in others, but they have this one great feature in common—that they are suitable to the girls of the modern generation and characterful and becoming at the same time.

There are a great many fringes done in all sorts of varying ways—fringes of silk, fringes of ribbon and sometimes fringes of ostrich feathers. This mode of trimming is extremely graceful, and it is no wonder that it has stayed popular for so great a length of time. Any girl has a natural instinct to flutter as she moves about in evening attire, and the fringed dresses make this possible in so charming a way.

For the girl who wishes more dignity for her evening appearance there is the robe de style, which promises to be even more popular this season than it was last. It is full skirt and the extreme length are interesting features, and a gown of this character manages to give to some girls that quaintness of appearance which makes them more fascinating even than they are in their natural state.

Then there are evening dresses of tulle which are lovely for the debutante. They are fluffy and airy and most girlish looking. They won't last a minute in any practical sense, for they tear easily and fade in sadness when the weather is wet. But while they are fresh, they are beautiful before words, and what debutante could wish for more than that?

Chiffon dresses for dancing and general evening wear have many flounces. They are scalloped or pleated in gold and silver, or they are made of many petals laid in tiers, one against the other. The colors are pale and illustrative sometimes more than one shade of the same color.

We've bought the house and built a garage. And we're going to have a car next year. Oh, yes, there's nothing like getting your children a square deal out of life!

Is that what's she's doing—getting her children a square deal?

She's buying a house and an automobile. And her children are losing a chance for an education, shouldering responsibility that belongs to their mother, roaming the street, suffering illness for want of care!

Is she a "brave" woman? Is what she has real mother love? I say that it is not!

Presently, Reddy met Bobby Coon. "Hello, Bobby," said Reddy. "What's this I hear about Mrs. Grouse being shot over here in the Green Forest?"

"The same thing I hear, I guess," replied Bobby. "I guess it is true enough. I heard the bang, bang of the terrible gun. I haven't seen Mrs. Grouse since. Isn't it dreadful?"

"Yes," said Reddy. "It is dreadful." And to hear him you would have thought that he was filled with sadness. As a matter of fact, he wasn't. He was filled with impatience at the minute, but he didn't want Bobby Coon to know it. As soon as he could, Reddy said goodbye and went on, so that presently he came to the place in the Green Forest where Mrs. Grouse had been shot.

For several minutes Reddy stood looking and listening, his black ears cocked forward, his bright eyes searching among the trees for the least little movement.

Cocoanut Meringues

BEAT the whites of four eggs until stiff. Add gradually, while beating, two-thirds of a cupful of fine granulated sugar. Continue beating until mixture will hold its shape. Fold in one-third of a cupful of fine granulated sugar and add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and two tablespoonfuls of shredded cocoanut. Shape with a tablespoon on a flat pan covered with paper. Sprinkle with shredded cocoanut and bake for 30 minutes in a slow oven. (Copyright, 1926.)

feathers Reddy got. All the time he was hunting for scent—the scent of Mrs. Grouse. By and by, he found another feather. It was so far from the place where the other feathers were, that Reddy brightened up. "I don't believe Mrs. Grouse is dead at all," thought he. "No, sir, she isn't dead at all. She got away from that hunter." At the thought, Reddy's mouth began to water. Perhaps he would have that grouse dinner after all. (Copyright, 1926.)

THE RECALL.
NOW comes a voice from o'er the sea;
"Come home, Marie, come home, Marie.
Or there will be no Christmas tree
If you're not here to trim it.
Without your gracious presence, dear,
There'll be no Christmas presents here
And Santa Claus may not appear
And that would be the limit."

QUITE SO.
If amicable relations are to be restored between Washington U., and Missouri U. it looks like they'll have to put the soft pedal on O'Sullivan. How about a pair of rubber heels?

These little football flareups are to be expected and the only impression they leave on the student body is a few clear scars that time will heal.

To date Washington is the most consistent team in the valley conference. The Bears have lost all six of the games played and the only outfit in the Valley organization that can present a clean slate.

It has been discovered that the official marathon distance is about four miles too long. Quite a number of starters, though, have found it about 20 miles too long.

"Think U. S. Needs Buddhism."
Huh! The Eighteenth Amendment knocked that out long ago!

The Princeton Tiger has severed his relations with Harvard and it is reported that the Missouri Tiger is thinking of breaking with the Washington Bear. The Tigers seem to be hard to get along with this year.

How about a little game between the Tigers of Princeton and Missouri for the championship of the Jungle Conference.
